WE NOMINATE

John Alexander Mackay, one of the great churchmen of the mid-20th century, who next summer with the close of the academic year 1958-59 will retire from the presidency of Princeton Theological Seminary, American Presbyterianism's oldest and largest training center. His retirement at age 69 will ring down the curtain on what one of his colleagues terms a "brilliant 23-year period" during which the Princeton Area's second oldest community of learning has gained a position of leadership in the religious life of the Protestant world.

Since he succeeded President Joseph Ross Stevenson (paternal grandfather of Mrs. Helen Stevenson Meyner) in the fall of 1936, Mackay has been in the forefront of those working for such organizations as the International Missionary Council and the World Council of Churches. However, in spite of an exhausting routine, he has never lost sight of what he has frequently described as his dream: a "Confessional Seminary with an Ecumenical (or Universal) Spirit." Whatever he has been doing, and wherever he has been, he has given of himself in making the Seminary all that it is.

In an era when leaders of major religious groupings express deep concern over the quality of religious instruction and the number, and calibre, of candidates for the ministry, Princeton Seminary has flourished. Its faculty has become international in scope and its enrollment has doubled in the past two decades—jumping from 250 in 1936 to some 500 in 1958. Today the student body includes men and women from more than 40 states and U.S. Territories, 20 lands across the world and well over 50 distinct religious denominations.

Like so many of his colleagues in higher education, Mackay, an articulate and outspoken native of Inverness, Scotland, will use "retirement" as a springboard into the future—meaning, in this instance, continuation of his studies in Latin-American philosophy and theology. A year from now Mackay, once described as "one of the best-known North Americans in South America," and his wife, the former Jane Logan Wells, will be living in Chevy Chase, Md., so that he may have ready access to the Hispanic Section of the Library of Congress.

Prior to his designation as third president of Princeton Seminary, an institution headed for almost a century by a Board of Directors rather than by a single executive, Mackay gave 20 years of service in South America where, through his work with scholars and practical "political scientists," he gained unusual insights into Hispanic affairs. An honor graduate of the University of Aberdeen, he was one of the first Anglo-Saxons ever to receive a doctoral degree from the University of San Marcos, Peru, the oldest university in the Western Hemisphere.

For personifying the rare kind of courage that stems from strong convictions, whether in expressing his opposition to "McCarthyism," or in favoring this country's recognition of Soviet China; for his achievements as a theologian, educational administrator and spokesman for a truly Christian way of life; he is Town Topics' nominee for

COMMUTERS' DILEMMA

Pay to Park—or Else. Two well-remembered months ago, the Pennsylvania Railroad leased much of its property on both sides of the tracks at Princeton Junction to a private parking lot concern. The firm, which runs similar operations at other busy stations, paved and fenced lots on both sides of the tracks, installed "magic arm" pay stops at entrances to the lots and meters for spaces that couldn't be enclosed, and started charging commuters to New York and Philadelphia 25 cents a day.

Princeton's commuters, high-salaried or otherwise, resented the new installation because of the principle—as well as the price (which, incidentally, tops $60 per year, or close to two months' worth of commutation tickets). Many jammed the free parking areas around the downtown Princeton station, some started "car pools" to the Junction, others began to use the Junction's metered spaces without bothering to pay. A lucky few, with low-slung foreign cars, discovered they could get under the "magic arms" and into the lots free of charge.

Today, two months later, with the Junction lots and metered spaces only half-full much of the time and automobiles parked all over the unleased Junction terrain, a number of commuters have come to the unhappy realization that they must pay to park—or else. Many non-payers have returned in the evening to find a tire flat, a wind-shield wiper missing, a battery run down. In one known instance, right front tires of five cars in a row were found flat the same evening.

Whereas current events and Princeton football used to dominate train talk en route to New York or Philadelphia, the commuter's dilemma at the Junction has now taken its place as topic No. 1. Rebellious conclaves have been held in the Pennsy's diners; reports on bent parking meters—where cars with flats stood the night before—have been toasted over morning coffee.

A Bitter Complaint. Taking the bull by the horns and writing on behalf of a "considerable number of commuters," Elias B. Baker, 1 Ober Road, dispatched a strongly worded letter this past week to J. M. Symes, president of the PRR. His purpose, the irate commuter explained, was "to complain bitterly about the way in which the parking lot is being managed because we feel that, by merely leasing your property to an operator, you have not absolved the railroad of responsibility to its regular passengers."

Detailing the problem, Mr. Baker wrote: "Many regular commuters are forced under the pressure of business to remain in New York late and often overnight, in which cases our cars are left in the parking lot for an extra day. This means of course that the meters have not been paid for the second day's parking, and the displeasure of the parking lot operator has been expressed by letting air out of tires, maliciously breaking windshield wipers off cars and, where doors are left unlocked, by turning on lights resulting in run-down batteries."

Mr. Baker stressed, "This is not the malicious mischief of juvenile delinquents against which we should be protected, since we have to pay to park, and we have taken the trouble to investigate to the extent of being sure that this is planned damage executed by a person or persons not in attendance at the peak commuting hours.

"Calling this to your attention should be sufficient to have it remedied. However, failing in this, we have decided to engage a private detective to apprehend the perpetrator of this damage and have him arrested in the Township (West Windsor) where your station is located.

"Since the Pennsylvania Railroad is the owner of this property, and since our only reason for using the facilities are to board your trains, it seems the primary responsibility lies with you. Any further corrective action on our part must be against the railroad."

Difference of Opinion. Contacted by TOWN TOPICS, Howard A. Gilbert, a resident of Nassau Estates who commutes to New York from Trenton and who is manager of public relations for the PRR's New York region, said he was "not aware of anything unusual" in viewing the Junction lots on his way to and from work. "Perhaps there are minor things, the sort of things that go on in any comparable lots, but there have been no signs of outright

Check Stubs Answer These Questions:

To whom paid? . . . For What? . . . When? . . . How Much?

Some people think the best reason for having a Checking Account is the way the check stubs keep a record of every cent paid out. They know, too, that paying by check saves time and steps, and that the record on the check stub discourages over-spending.

The Bourbon Institute

A new organization came into being on October 9. "The Bourbon Institute" is dedicated to further establish American straight bourbon whiskey in the U. S. and to spread its fame to all parts of the world.

Bourbon is termed "the only truly 100 per cent American Whiskey . . . It belongs to the folklore of America, born 170 years ago when Kentucky was part of Virginia".

American Straight Bourbon is not necessarily 100 proof, bottled-in-bond whiskey, but ranges from 80 proof to as high as 107 proof.

In 1948 straight bourbons represented 13% of the domestic market, while in 1958 they will total more than 50% of all liquor sales in the U. S. The preference for American Straight Bourbon has more than trebled in those ten years vandalism. What's more, the lots are being used more and more."

The Wine & Game Shop offers 39 Straight Bourbons for your selection. We invite you to select and serve one of these American whiskies.

An officer at the Princeton Barracks of the State Police, the primary law enforcement arm in West Windsor Township, explained that there have been no official complaints from commuters as a result of car damage at the Junction. "Of course, we have heard a number of 'unofficial' reports on the situation," he confided.

Magistrate A. C. Reeves Hicks of West Windsor told TOWN TOPICS this week he has received "three or four calls complaining about vandalism at the Junction" in recent days. He said he has referred the complaints to the State Police, indicating that the State Police may well have some "official" reports soon. The magistrate added that West Windsor's part-time, two-man police force has reported nothing to him on the matter.

As TOWN TOPICS went to press, battle lines appeared to be well-drawn. Commuters were finding it increasingly difficult to park in no-man's land, along which the parking lot firm has sunk railroad ties and wired them together to prevent parking on the grass—and has erected "No Parking" signs, which some persons believe are invalid. The train talk was still very much centered on the commuter's dilemma. And Elias B. Baker was waiting to hear from J. M. Symes.

PERSONALITIES

Dr. Robert F. Goheen, "Prospect," president of Princeton University and "Person to Person" television personality who this week flew to Belgrade to spend 10 days talking with representatives of five universities in Yugoslavia to see whether arrangements can be made for a number of scholars in the fields of economics and public administration to visit this country for varying periods of study. Sponsored by The Ford Foundation, the visit—involving a three-man team of American educators—is not a governmental enterprise and has no propaganda implications, but is aimed simply at furthering the flow of knowledge and understanding.

Mrs. Kate E. Nicoll, 247 Western Way, and William R. Bonthron, The Great Road, ardent Democrat and Republican, respectively, who this week are responsible for a pair of thought-stimulating additions to "Why I Plan to Vote," a popular, annual pre-election feature of TOWN TOPICS (page 15). This week's subject is the 1958 election battle for one Committee sent in Princeton Township, with Mrs. Nicoll, former president of the Township Board of Education, supporting William W. Marvel (in particular, his strong plea for more recreational facilities in the municipality) and Mr. Bonthron, longtime Princeton resident as well as storied American miler, supporting William B. Dodge (along with the current GOP administration).

ROUND-UP

TOP OF THE NEWS: Daylight Saving Time comes to an end once again early Sunday morning, and readers are invited to double-check which way to turn their watches and clocks by referring to Calendar, page 13, or to look ahead to another DST season by checking the poem in Weather Box, page 4. . . . the State Highway Department has just completed a complicated traffic study on Nassau Street, and has come up with some pretty startling figures for a "normal peak hour in Princeton" . . . according to the SHD statistics, gleaned last Thursday, the short Nassau span between Chambers and Bank Streets handled the most vehicles, some 15,130 travelling in both directions, and the distance between Witherspoon and Tulane Streets ranked second, with 15,900 during the busy 60 minutes . . . commenting on the figures, Borough Engineer I. Russell Riker said, "They are 20 percent higher than they should be for our facilities," but they are not as high as he expected because drivers apparently have gotten fed up with the main street turmoil and now are seeking other arteries, such as Avalon Place.

Still bent on a successful promotion of its "Open Friday Nights" campaign, the Princeton Business Association has inserted an advertisement on the same theme in TOWN TOPICS for the third straight week . . . it can be found on page 14 . . . and, by turning to page 17, readers will find that Question of the Week also is devoted to the Friday night situation in hopes that it may stimulate additional interest in the earnest PBA program . . . usually people have a tough time beating the horses, but some Princetonians managed the trick this past week . . . the New Jersey Supreme Court, in a long-awaited decision, refused to review the confusing "bridle paths" case, meaning that the Princeton Riding Club no longer has any rights in the Westerly and Brookstone tracts and must seek new routes to adequate trails or possibly find a more rural location for its entire operation.

A BIT FURTHER DOWN: The State Civil Defense and Disaster Control Commission will stage the first of a series of pre-attack exercises from 7 to 9 p.m. this Thursday . . . the public will not participate, though Borough and Township disaster control officials, now directed by Geoffrey Sage, and their communications organizations will work with the State during the program . . . December 2 has been selected as the tentative date for a Lawrence Township referendum on a proposed $819,000 expansion project at two schools, the first such project since 1955 . . . the Lawrence Board of Education and the Township's Citizens' Advisory Committee want to build a new six-classroom addition to Slackwood Elementary School and a new 16-classroom addition to Lawrence Junior High.

The Benefit Dance Committee has announced its eighth annual dance for the benefit of the May Margaret Fine Endowment Fund of Miss Fine's School will be held Friday evening, January 30, with Emil Coleman and his orchestra providing the necessary background . . . no new word from law enforcement officers this past week on the October 1 burglary of The English Shop, which amounted to some 250 suits valued at $15,000 . . . the Borough noted this week in an independent survey of commercial signs in the municipality that 200 non-conforming signs have been eliminated since 1953, when an ordinance was passed setting specific sign standards, and 300 non-conformists are still hanging around town . . . unanswered Question of the Week: To what happy hunting ground is the "Pink Elephant" heading?

Look, Your Future Is Here!

Yesterday is a memory, today will be gone before you know it, and tomorrow . . . ?

What you do in the voting booth on November 4th will make tomorrow what you want it to be. You might bring back the old indecisive kind of government which fumbled behind closed doors and solved few problems. (Its boxscore on Urban Renewal, for instance: years of talk, absolutely nothing done.) Or you can continue "open government", which in 10 months brought the citizens of the Borough together on Urban Renewal and set the stage for Federal approval.

Shaping Princeton's future in the Princeton manner calls for planning . . . and understanding leadership. This administration is showing the way. The Council's Committee on the Future of Princeton is the first of its kind in the State, perhaps in the Nation. Its job: to help insure the Borough's capacities for meeting the demands generated by the astounding growth of the Princeton Area.

ACTION IS NOW BEING TAKEN ON THESE PRESSING MATTERS:

- Updating the Master Plan (after eight long years!)
- Traffic and Parking (the number one problem confronting the Borough and its neighbors.)
- Zoning (safeguarding the 1.83 square miles that comprise the Borough of Princeton.)
- Recreation (a joint venture with Princeton Township.)
- Personnel Code (the first in the Borough's history.)

SCHOOL NEEDS DISCUSSED

Township Plans Additions. The ever-pressing problems of school expansion were further explored last Thursday when the Township Board of Education held its October meeting. Looking ahead to the completion of the two new schools on the Johnson and Riverside sites, the board discussed alterations at Valley Road when it becomes an upper-grade school. The administration was authorized to find out the cost of architectural drawings for space renovations and report back to the Board next Thursday when bids for the new school buildings will be received.

Progress was reported on negotiations for Community Gardens part of the long-range Township plans for its schools system. A lower-grade school is needed in the central area of Princeton, and the acquisition of part of Community Gardens would mean substantial savings for Township taxpayers.

Specifications Added. The New Buildings Committee reported additional specifications were being prepared for the two new schools to give the board detailed information about the cost of individual items and greater flexibility of choice after the bids are submitted. Copies of the plans have been picked up by 48 contractors, fairly evenly divided among the five basic types required under State law.

A. Robert Trudel, chairman of the building committee, reported the hiring of an inspector to supervise road construction at the Johnson Park site. Progress has been slower than anticipated, but a representative of O. C. Lewis & Sons, present at the meeting, assured the board that the road would be completed ahead of the contract date.

Landscaping for Littlebrook. The landscaping committee for Littlebrook School, composed of parents and Princeton citizens, have recommended certain trees be removed and concrete work be completed immediately to eliminate safety hazards and that the remainder of the work be considered for next year's budget. Glen B. Miller Jr. is chairman of the committee, and George Conover, chairman of the building and grounds committee, brought the recommendations before the board.

Other matters decided and discussed at the meeting included:

● The closing of schools Thursday and Friday, November 6 and 7, to enable teachers to attend the State Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City.

● The passing of a resolution supporting the constitutional amendment included in the November 4 referendum which would permit the Fund for the Support of the Free Public Schools to be used for payment of principal and/or interest on local school bonds.

● The authorization to begin seeking qualified teachers and two principals for the two new schools.

● The setting of dates for three special meetings: next Thursday for receiving opening bids on the schools; November 6 for the awarding of contracts; and November 13 for a full discussion of the special education program). Plans for a meeting on the foreign language program will be made later.

PAIR HEAVILY FINED

For Attacking Patrolman. Two men who assaulted Patrolman Michael Kopliner, Jr. of Princeton Township shortly after the Rutgers-Princeton football game on September 27 were given heavy fines Tuesday by Magistrate Louis R. Gerber. The policeman required hospital treatment after he had been set upon by the pair because he ordered them to stop damaging a Princeton undergraduate's bicycle.

Edward Delaney, 25, of Jersey City paid $205 and received a 30-day suspended sentence. John Bowker, 28, of Colonia, was fined $105.

Two cases of careless driving were also heard by Magistrate Gerber. Elija H. Jones, 38, 329 Witherspoon Street, was fined $30 and E. R. Costello, 52, Drakes Corner Road, paid $25.

BUTTONS AND BOWS

As Political Showdown Nears. More and more Princetonians were sporting buttons proclaiming their political preferences and more and more politicans were taking speech-ending bows this week as the 1958 campaign neared its climax. Despite the absence of a gubernatorial race in New Jersey or a mayoralty race in Princeton, there was still political excitement. Partisan diehards realized it is almost showdown time.

Preparing for last-blast maneuvers, the Princeton Democratic Club staged an enthusiastic, well-attended rally Tuesday evening in the Chestnut Street Firehouse. U.S. Congressman Frank Thompson Jr., candidate for re-election in district 4, keynoted the occasion and was supported by an outline of local programs by Borough, Township and County aspirants. Edward Sweeney, club president, announced that the organization's final rally will be held in Palmer Square at 5 p.m. October 30, with Governor Meyner slated to introduce Harrison A. Williams, U. S. Senate hopeful, and Representative Thompson.

The Republican Clubs of Princeton also announced plans for their concluding campaign gatherings. State Senator Walter S. Jones, speaking on "New Jersey at the Political Crossroads," will address the regular monthly meeting of the clubs this Thursday evening at the Nassau Tavern. Next Tuesday evening, at the same place, the clubs will hold their annual "Candidates' Night," featuring speeches by Borough and Township standard-bearers and introductions of A.

Jerome Moore, candidate for Congress from the 4th district, and Mrs. Regina Meredith and William B. Holman, Republican aspirants for Freeholder.

To introduce GOP candidates to voters in the two Princeton municipalities, the Women's Republican Club of Princeton has scheduled a series of coffee hours for each weekday next week. Persons interested in attending are asked to contact Republican headquarters at 10 Nassau Street (WA 1-7320) for specific times and addresses.

"Rhetoric Versus Action." Continuing their verbal campaign against the current Democrat-dominated Borough Council, GOP candidates Paul C. Alford and Orren Jack Turner Jr. stated this week that the Democrats promised falsely to correct the "rank injustices" they had observed in the municipality's assessment of property. "As of now," the Republicans said, "we have yet to learn of a single instance where a Borough taxpayer has received any tax relief as a result of this promise."

Commenting that "another matter of rhetoric versus action deserves the attention of the electorate," Messrs. Alford and Turner criticized Mayor Male for his inaugural pledge to "seek to widen citizen participation in the affairs of local government" by drawing on Princeton's wealth of "talent and energy." They said, "We sincerely hope that this procedure will be kept in mind when such committees are appointed. In 10 months, only one such group has been created; seven citizens to serve on a joint recreation board, instigated by the present Township Committee."

In Princeton Township this week, Democratic hopeful William W. Marvel stressed two changes during 1958 "in the Township's traffic safety picture as affected by sidewalks—or the absence thereof." The Democrat said, "A year ago Snowden Lane was narrow, without sidewalks, and dangerous for all pedestrians, especially children going to Littlebrook School. Then the one-party Township Committee performed one of its 'miracles,' as recently cited by my opponent. Result: today Snowden Lane is a much wider, much rougher speedway, without sidewalks, and dangerous for all pedestrians, especially children going to Littlebrook School."

Also a year ago, according to Mr. Marvel, "Valley Road still lacked sidewalks, although for years school children had trooped back and forth along this major artery, protected only by the makeshift arrangement of warning signs. It took the Republican town fathers only five or six years to get around to their 'miracle' in this case, a delightful: glistening white sidewalks on Valley Road with half the cost charged to adjoining property owners as a penalty for their poor judgment in buying houses there in the first place!"

William B. Dodge, Republican candidate for Township Committee, issued two statements this week, one lauding steps taken by the present GOP-controlled Committee in providing sensible recreational facilities for the municipality, the other endorsing the Committee's "master plan," which he called "the biggest and undoubtedly the most important single project of our Township government." Among the steps mentioned by Mr. Dodge: appointment of a Joint Citizens' Advisory Committee on Recreation, preparation of a thorough study by said committee which "is expected before the end of the year," negotiations for acquisition of "Community Gardens" and drainage of the Township-owned area behind the Shopping Center which will be developed "as soon as sufficient fill dirt can be obtained to enable him (the Township Engineer) to make level playing areas."

In connection with his support of the "master plan," Mr. Dodge emphasized that his opponent has attended "only two out of the last seven" meetings of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, of which he was appointed, and described Mr. Marvel's contributions as "meager." He pledged his wholehearted endorsement of the plan, along with the Township Committee, the Planning Board and the Citizens' Advisory Committee.

What with Eastern Standard Time scheduled to return this weekend (all clocks go back an hour Saturday night), it would take a bit of dreaming by Lotta Eater until warm weather and longer days returned. As proof of downward temperature trends, the thermometer twice dipped to 35 degrees.

Still and all, the Man observed, things would not become intolerable all at once. The next four days, for example, will bring more pleasant Indian Summer weather: a few degrees above normal, little or no rain in sight.

TRIPLE-TROUBLE

Rash of Unusual Accidents. Possibly for the first time ever, the Princeton area recorded three serious three-car accidents on three consecutive days this past week. Fortunately, none of the many persons involved in the rash of unusual mishaps was critically injured and, as TOWN TOPICS went to press, only one victim remained in Princeton Hospital.

The first accident in the series occurred about 11 p.m. last Friday on the Millstone River bridge between Princeton Township and Kingston. According to State Trooper Robert Polhamus, who investigated the matter, a car driven by Mrs. Christine N. Peakes, 53, of 315 Riverside Drive, was sideswiped by a truck operated by Thomas Brantley, 27, of New Brunswick, then was rammed from the rear—as it came to a quick stop—by an auto driven by Samuel C. Howell, 29, of 26 College Road.

Mrs. Peakes, an employee of the Textile Research Institute here, was taken to the hospital by the Princeton First Aid Unit. She suffered rib fractures and a possible concussion, but by Wednesday her condition was listed as "apparently satisfactory." Chester Obea, 34, of New Brunswick, a passenger in the Brantley vehicle, suffered a minor cut of the lower lip, while Mr. Howell, assistant to the dean of Princeton University; his wife, Joan, and another couple in their car were not hurt.

ICI "LE CID"

French Traupe Coming. Theatre National Populaire, one of France's three great repertory companies, will come to Princeton in November for one performance. They will appear in Corneille's "Le Cid" in McCarter Theater on Friday, November 7, at 8:30 p.m. under the auspices of Princeton University.

One of the few great repertory companies in the world, T.N.P. is coming to the United States this fall for its first visit. It will appear in New York, Philadelphia, Washington and elsewhere, in addition to Princeton.

The French Ministry of Fine Arts chose actor-director J an Vilar to revive T.N.P. some years ago, and his successful rejuvenation of the company is regarded in France as a "theatrical miracle." He has drawn enormous crowds to the exciting and orlginal productions of great French plays which he has mounted at the Palais de Chaillot in Paris. Vilar will direct and act in the Princeton performance.

In addition to M. Vilar, "Le Cid" will feature two of France's finest actors: Gerard Phillipe (star of the movie version of "Rouge et Noir") and Maria Casares. A company of 42 actors will support the stars.

Tickets may be ordered by writing McCarter Theater, Box 526, Princeton.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Cat an a Hot Tin Roof (October 23-25) is a distinguished motion picture for many reasons, not the least of which are Elizabeth Taylor's most memorable performance since "National Velvet" and the fact that Tennessee Williams' language, really filthy in the play's Broadway version, has been cleaned up to pass Hollywood censors without losing any of its original impact. "Cat" is still an "adult" presentation, what with sex a much-emphasized ingredient, but it is a screen offering most moviegoers — Williams devotees or not — are going to appreciate. It is superbly produced, well-acted and magnificently directed and photographed Richard Brooks, in charge of the clean-up job with writer James Poe, is responsible for the multi-prize-winning play's cinema direction. It is largely due to his magic touch that the story of a turbulent Deep South family, thrown into emotional upheaval and bitter soul-searching by the prospect of the family patriarch's death, proves completely absorbing, from beginning to end. Miss Taylor, particularly enchanting in Metrocolor, contributes a surprisingly fine characterization, while Burl Ives — the "Big Daddy" of the Broadway rendition — duplicates his wonderful portrayal in the film. Paul Newman, Jack Carson, Judith Anderson and Madeleine Sherwood fill other important roles with distinction.

The Hunters (October 26-28) are Robert Mitchum, Robert Wagner, Richard Egan, Lee Philips and a host of other would-be jet pilots and their quarry — much of the time, at any rate — consists of the Communist air arm over Korea in 1952. The rest of the time, Mitchum — ever the screen's most proficient half-hero, half-heel — is busy chasing May ("The Young Lions") Britt, cast as Philips' wife. To make the pursuit (of May, not the May Dayers) easier, she is situated seductively in picturesque Tokyo, where she is supposed to be caring for the nerves of her war-damaged husband rather than the

MUSIC In Princeton

OCTET IS HEARD

Viennese Chamber Group Plays. The Vienna Octet gave to Princeton music lovers last Monday night an evening of enchanting and civilized entertainment. Playing before an unusually large audience, by Series II standards, the eight musicians showed once more how exciting it is to hear the truly-disciplined player with music in his heart as well as his mind.

In this concert, first of the Series II chamber programs at McCarter Theater, the Octet played the Mozart Divertimento No. 17 in D and the Schubert Octet in F, Opus 166. In many ways, the Mozart emerged as the more romantic of the two compositions, particularly in the first Menuetto. These Viennese musicians play Mozart from the depths of a loving heart and in this minuet the violin cadences seemed to sing in a way that some Mozart purists might regard as almost too lyrical. (But this reviewer didn't, and neither did the audience.)

The Schubert Octet, characterized by a Scherzo and a Menuetto that are reminiscent of German dances, provided its own lyrical passages, particularly in the final bars of the Andante where the two violins and then the violin carry a melody so quiet and so serene that the entire movement seems to hold its breath. This passage and the first Mozart Menuetto marked the high points of the Octet's performance.

One expects precision from an orchestra following a conductor, but it is always a pleasant surprise to find it in a chamber group whose only leadership comes from continued association —and the almost invisible nod of the second violin. The flawless attack, the perfect nuance and above all the balance of the instruments seem almost miraculous.

It is, perhaps, the balance of the eight instruments that seems most remarkable in this remarkable group. The bass and the French horn never intrude their weight. In the allegro of the Divertimento, the bass plucks out a pizzicato against a solo violin and the bass stays where he belongs—in the background.

The Vienna Octet brought to the Mozart, not only the exquisite lyricism it demands, but also the vigor required in certain parts, notably the two final movements. In the Schubert Octet, which has always seemed to this listener to have less unity than the Mozart, the Octet had a chance to be soulful, melodic, folksy, and to show, in certain parts of the variations, what individual members of the group can do.

Willi Boskowsky as first violinist was the virtuoso of Monday night's concert, although Nikolaus Huebner played superbly in the cello passages of the Schubert variations. The audience seemed to respond most affectionately to the numbering form of Johann Krump, a double bass player who dwarfs his instrument.

As an encore, the Vienna Octet showed where its heart really lay and returned to Mozart's Divertimento to play again a portion of the second movement.

FIRST FRIENDS CONCERT

Early Music to be Played. The Collegium Musicum of the University of Illinois will be heard next Wednesday in a program of early music ranging from Guillaume de Machant to John Dowling. This first concert of the season for the Friends of Music at Princeton will be given in 10 McCosh on the campus at 8:30 p.m.

The Collegium Musicum ensemble consists of a contralto, tenor, lute, recorder, vielle, viola da gamba, and krummhorn. The instruments are authentic copies of early instruments.

Like all concerts sponsored by the Friends of Music, this one will be open to the public without charge.

"For Heaven's Sake"

Promising a full musical comedy rather than a musical revue and indicating an emphasis on fairly current events, the Princeton Triangle Club will launch its 67th annual production, "For Heaven's Sake," at McCarter Theatre on December 11. Publicists have assured, well in advance, that it will be "a delightful look at the Beat Generation and the mess in Washington."

Following opening night, "Sake" will also be presented at McCarter on December 12 and 13, with a matinee as well as evening performance its final day here. Then, an elaborate road trip will commence at Hunter College Playhouse in New York City on December 17. At all stops, the chorus will make with such potentially potent songs as "Bureaucracy," "Beat, Beat, Beat" and "Poetry and Jazz."

News Of The Theatres

advances of unscarred "Mitch."

Ah well, everything finally turns out in red, white and blue fashion, despite the lovers' off-color approach to love, for "Mitch" is a flyboy first, last and always and, when it comes time to rescue Philips in enemy territory, he does the job — with an assist from Wagner, of course. In short, Philips eventually gets his own wife, while our hero gets the air. The story is pretty standard stuff with an all-too-standard finish, but producer-director Dick Powell has given his latest product fast pace and some moments of true excitement and, what's more, the jet acrobatics in CinemaScope are grade-A aerial sequences.

The Barbarian and the Geisha (October 29-November 1) sound like a red-hot combination, but the only thing that sizzles in this elaborate production, filmed entirely in Japan, is the visual grandeur generated by CinemaScope and some wonderful color photography. The splendid pageantry, panoply, parades, ceremonials, settings, etc., are presented as effectively as they have ever been shown in an American movie. Otherwise, the picture is second-rate action for John Wayne and second-rate direction for John Huston, which adds up to a disappointing total.

Actually, the story — concerning the first U.S. Consul to Japan —is a generally interesting one. It involves the diplomat's difficulty in crossing language and cultural barriers, it involves a geisha girl who is dispatched to spy on him but grows to like him, and it involves such an assortment of cinema thrills as an epidemic of cholera, an attempted murder and at least a touch of hara-kiri. Unfortunately, the story moves tediously between its widespread moments of absorbing intrigue and the acting does little to compensate for the film's slow movement.

THE GARDEN

The Night Heaven Fell (October 23-25), in French with English titles, displays Brigitte Bardot in curvacious CinemaScope and enticing Eastmancolor, so who cares about the plot, the direction or the supporting players? No doubt the Garden is destined for a healthy run, regardless of the reviewer's remarks, but, for the record, the plot is weak, the direction is aim-

IT'S NEW To Us

AROUND THE WORLD

With Beer and Chocolates. Between Louise Maas' candles and Wine & Game's beer—well, let's put it this way: Miss Maas speaks of candidates from UN countries and although some people might quibble at the Scotch, Irish and West German brands on her shelves, it is certainly true that she has an international assortment.

Wine & Game boasts of 18 imported beers from Germany, Japan, Denmark, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Ireland and England. W & G skirts the United Nations theme and just says, "We've got a lot of imported brew."

On the Maas candy shelves, you'll find Germany's gold-wrapped bunch of grapes, each grape individually wrapped, for $2.25. Near-by is a charming metal tea caddy full of Irish chocolates. Across the way is a new Belgian chocolate bar, Cote d'or, in bittersweet or milk for a nickel.

Scotland's Kilties are made of layered chocolate, crisp as a dry macaroon. Holland's assorted chocolates are by De Gruyten from Hertogenbosch and the town square is pictured on the cover.

We think you'll be most interested in the Finnish offerings. Try a Hazlenut Dragee ($1.25 lb.), a whole nut coated with hard candy, rather like the coating on an M & M Marmalasd looks like an orange slice and tastes like a tart gum-drop except that it's not very gummy. Little coffee beans are really made of chocolate and when you bite, there's a drink of real coffee.

England contributes White Heather chocolates, or a very special licorice. Denmark wraps gold foil around a chocolate rocket, Italy dresses sugar almond dolls in various national costumes, France packs hard candies and calls them "Parisian goldfish."

Treats For Witches

Make no mistake about it: that small and grubby palm extended to you on Hallowe'en will have to be filled. We suggest candy corn. Available in fulsome supply at Louise Maas, Viedt's and Thorne's.

For really special celebrating, there are orange and black "peppermint" sticks, the harvest moon lolly pops, and one cent Hallowe'en sticks at Louise Maas, the trick-or-treat bags, taffy bags and witch's head PEZ dispensers at Thorne's.

Miss Maas presents butter cream pumpkins (60c a pound), black or orange cats and a ghost whose white cloak can be peeled away to reveal his warm chocolate heart.

If you're more interested in ghouls than in sweetmeats, be sure to visit Zinder's where you'll find the largest and handsomest collection of evil eyes, bloody finger-nails, hexed witches . . . get yours before they get YOU!

Candles and Champagne. Wine & Game, a romantic heart beating under its stout exterior (the stout is from England, over there on the beer rack), now provides a pink candle with its pink champagne. The wine comes from Paul Masson and you get it in a special box that holds wine bottles, a twisted pink candle and a star-shaped candle-holder, all for $5.74.

The shop also has a kit of champagne (or sparking Burgundy) and two glasses for $4.89. This means that you no longer have to drink your champagne out of the bottle, always an awkward maneuver when you're offering toasts.

The same Paul Masson packs a fine brandy—four fifths—in a gold and white apothecary jar with a gold neck cord and tassle. After the brandy is gone, you can use it in the bathroom. Or before the brandy is gone, for that matter.

For people who serve martinis, Wine and Game has a mixer with separate compartments for gin and vermouth. There is a sort of dial thing on top that you turn to give a custom-mixed drink for each guest. If the dial is turned to "dry", the vermouth practically shuts off—you get the idea. The mixer is clear plastic, tub-shaped, with a white plastic dial top. They call it "Bon Vivant" and it's $7.95.

Frank Schoonmaker wines are back in Princeton. Wine & Game offers Chateauneauf du Pape, Beaujolasis-Brouilly and a Rheingau Reudesheimer.

To Inverness! A Princeton male with a buckle to swash ought to head for the English Shop to buy a Scotch cape in wool tweeds or checks, the color of Edinburgh on a foggy night. Galashiels is the Scotch house that makes them and we can't think of a man who wouldn't look ravishing in one. (So far, it's the women who've been buying them up.)

More conservative gentlemen will revere the Rodex topcoat. It comes in a Saxony wool, soft as an Englishwoman's cheek, or a gruff gate-keeper tweed. There is a dark charcoal, something called barleycorn grey (barleycorn is more regular than pepper and salt but less regular than houndstooth. Are you with us?) and a reddish hue called fox brown.

Downstairs where the ladies buy at The English Shop, there are jersey suits from the German firm of Bleyle. These follow the easy Chanel look, most of them three-piecers in soft greys or sage greens with a contrasting jersey blouse in stripe or print.

There are even jersey slacks with matching top, in blue or red and black check. A two-piecer in this wool jersey is a closer fit than the Chanel-style we mentioned above; in fact, it looks almost like a woven wool suit with its closely fitted jacket and its blue and green plaid.

Lady Hathaway's blouses are stained-glass prints, paisleys and provincials, all made of Liberty of London cotton. Blouses, hanging quite appropriately on a rack above the skirt collections, range from pure silk to jersey to Evan Picone's white cotton. There are quantities of skirts, some with a Scotch burr, others with an accent that speaks of Paris.

In an upstairs corner, The English Shop has set up a gift display where you may choose a present for $2 or $20. There is a light blue lady's purse, soft as angora, with a golden snap. There's a pillbox consisting of three joined compartments (one for tranquilizers, one for stimulants, one to keep you on an even keel?).

There's a wrought brass 14-inch mace, heavy enough to knock out King John himself. It's really a cigarette lighter; the wince will not be necessary. Another lighter is a black riding boot and there is also bar equipment to match. Flasks, tie holders, manicure sets, chess figures that light your cigarette . . . .

Winter is looming in. Stop raking leaves for a minute and ask yourself: "What about ice skating this winter?"

Tiger Auto has thought of it, even if you haven't. You may buy from them a circular skating pond that you put in your back yard. It comes in 15- 20 or 32-foot diameters and it consists of an aluminum guard, like the ones you edge a lawn with, and a heavy gauge polyethylene body that you flood with water. From $11.95 to $39.95.

("A child can set it up," the box says. Unquestionably. But can daddy?).

Hockey gloves are $5.49 to $15.95 at Tiger and if you're going to buy that rink, you might as well go the whole way. Skate guards this year are blue, red, white or black, did you know? And there are ankle supports, too, for all sizes. These give the wavering ankle all the support it needs to get across that 32-foot rink.

Now for hunting. Tiger offers something for everyone: a gun and reel cloth that eliminates fingerprints, salt corrosion and rust, and a compound you can use to weatherproof the feathers on your arrows. Signed testimonials from satisfied ducks.

ed at you-know-what and the supporting players are inconsequential. Set in the picturesque mountains of Spain, the story concerns lissome Brigitte's visit with an aunt and uncle and involvement with a handsome young man, who just happens to kill the uncle after the latter has ravished his sister. In a rather soap-operish hideout, Brigitte aids and abets the killer in evading the pursing gendarmes. "Wells Fargo," an all-American western action film that is as good as it is old, is on the Garden docket for Saturday afternoon for the benefit of Princeton's young fry.

Folies-Bergere (October 27-29), in French with English dubbed in, is a so-so import featuring Jeanmaire (last seen here in "Anything Goes" several years ago), Eddie Constantine (an American who has become a Gallic leading man), the handsome tones of Technicolor and some eye-catching choreography. The story is far from original: American soldier meets Folies chorus girl, he accuses her of stealing his wallet, she denies the theft, he pursues her, she talks invitingly, he pursues her, they clinch, there is the promise of fame and fortune, there is a most happy fade out. Nothing spectacular, just a nice friendly French evening for those who attend.

Most Spectacular Mishap. Some 24 hours and 35 minutes following the initial three-car accident, the most spectacular of the three mishaps took place in Princeton Borough at the busy intersection of Nassau and Harrison Streets. Frederick P. Cavanaugh, 21, of Trenton, proceeding west on Nassau, reportedly crossed into the eastbound lane, struck two oncoming autos, jumped the curb, drove across the southside sidewalk, demolished 10 feet of hedge, dug up a lawn and crashed into a tree.

Patrolmen John Markuson and Douglas Watson, who investigated for the Borough, said the Cavanaugh car travelled a total of 420 feet from the point where it hit the first eastbound auto—driven by John L. McKee, 41, of 188 State Road—to the tree which halted its progress. The second victimized car, operated by T. Jay Pointin of Mercerville, collided with Mr. Cavanaugh's car 200 feet beyond the McKee collision and the sidewalk-jumping occured 120 feet west of the second crash.

According to the investigators, Mr. Cavanaugh sustained a deep cut over his right eye and was unconscious until he reached Princeton Hospital, which discharged him early this week. Miss Karen O. Raywood, 18, of Trenton, a passenger in the Pointin auto, and her companion were treated for assorted abrasions at the hospital, then released. Mr. McKee was not injured.

The Borough officers reported the following damage: entire front of the Cavanaugh vehicle; left front fender, hood, door, wheel and bumper of the Pointin car; left rear fender and bumper of the McKee auto; and hedge and lawn of property owned by L. C. Brown, 341 Nassau. Mr. Cavanaugh was cited for reckless driving.

About 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Patrolman Walter Emann of the Princeton Township Police Department, assisted by Patrolman Orlando Carnevale, was called to Princeton - Kingston Road, scene of the third three-car smash-up. No injuries were recorded and damage to the vehicles was not extensive, but the mishap created a lot of excitement along a long stretch of road — particularly active on Sunday afternoons.

According to the officers' report, Kenneth Williams, 50, of Rahway, was driving east on Princeton-Kingston Road, pulling a trailer behind his car. When he passed an auto operated by William E. Sowarby, 45, of Laurel Avenue, Kingston, Mr. Sowarby thought the trailer was going to strike his vehicle, so he cut right to avoid any impact. In turning back into his proper lane, Mr. Sowarby apparently lost control of his car and hit a westbound auto, driven by Edward Wittkoesky, 67, of Highland Park. Messrs. Williams and Sowarby were given careless driving tickets.

Hunters Now Hunted

What with the bow and arrow deer season already in full swing and other seasons pending soon (small game, November 8-December 6; buck with firearms, December 8-13; open on all deer, December 20 only), James B. Campbell Jr., Princeton Township's police chief, this week reiterated a previous pledge regarding hunting in the Township in 1958. "We will take every step necessary to enforce our hunting laws," he said.

Chief Campbell pointed out that his officers have posted warning signs along all public highways in the municipality (see photo, page 18). He urged other citizens to post their lands, so that hunters must obtain written permission in order to hunt there, and he asked that all violations be reported to his department with dispatch.

Though the chief's safety program is aimed primarily at the start of firearms season November 8, "when we'll really need extra men due to the Harvard football game that day," he did not overlook the distince possibility of trouble during the bow and arrow period. In neighboring Lawrence Township this past week, a resident hunter was fined $105 for failure to report a bow and arrow kill.

BUSINESS ORGANIZES

For United Fund. The goal of the United Fund Business Division is $80,000 out of the UF total goal of $190,000. The division has been organized with ten sections under the general chairmanship of John M. Reeder, and the plan most generally followed is for company presidents to send a letter to all employees enclosing a United Fund brochure. This is followed by a personal solicitation from a company volunteer during business hours.

In addition, many corporations are offering a budget payment plan of extended payments. The Business Division believes that this is an easy and practical way of meeting a United Fund pledge.

For the third successive year, Princeton University has organized a complete solicitation of faculty, administrative personnel and maintenance staff. Faculty members will be solicitated at their place of residence by the wives of faculty members through the University League. Mrs. Nathaniel H. Farman, League president, will have a crew of 100 to make the calls.

On-campus solicitation is under the direction of Howard Stepp, registrar. The University, which has contributed about $15,000 in the past, has a 1958 goal of $18,000.

WARNING: POISON

Control Center Established. Accidents and poisonings account for a high percentage of deaths among pre-school age children and accidental poisoning in any age group presents a hospital with a serious emergency situation.

With these facts in mind, Princeton Hospital has established a special Poison Control Center, the sixth such in New Jersey. Dr. J. Leonard Moore of the Pediatrics Department has been named chairman of the Poison Control Committee and the other members are Dr. Thomas S. Harvey, chief pathologist of the hospital, and Dr. Louis Fishman of the department of Internal Medicine.

The committee has set up a special cabinet in the accident dispensary. It contains antidotes, medications, equipment needed for treatment (stomach pumps and the like) and a small library of special reference books. The dispensary also has a card file of data furnished by the National Clearing House on Poisons, an organization located in Washington, D.C., which furnishes hospitals with information on the ingredients in new industrial products.

MANIFESTO from the PRINCETON
MANOR CONSTRUCTION CO.

Larry Munson, our chum over at the Little Gallery, recently issued a manifesto about giving Princeton a hotfoot to stimulate an interest in contemporary art. While we feel that certain schools of abstract painting in the contemporary manner are more a form of interior decoration than art, we vigorously support any movement which sparks — in revulsion or pleasure — the aesthetic sensibilities of our community. The Princeton Manor Construction Co. has a manifesto which we too feel is worth proclaiming.

Within the past month and a half over 10,000 people from all over the country have visited our Display Home at 136 Randall Rd. They came to see an entirely new concept in living — a home with an indoor swimming pool.

The comments of our visitors that we overheard are interesting. Many observations revolved around the concept of family togetherness. While we are less enchanted by the concept of togetherness than the privacy of family apartness, especially around the cocktail hour, there is, no doubt, something to be said for the whole family splashing around in the pool together.

One of our literary friends, who goes around looking for symbols in Little Orphan Annie and myths in Lil Abner, suggested that the pool's appeal lay in water as an ancient purification symbol. Many of our visitors cooed appreciatively about the beauty of the pool seen through sliding glass doors, especially in the late afternoon when the sun dances on the water, or during the evening when the underwater light casts a soft glow.

One opinion with which we wholeheartedly agree is that an indoor pool represents a sensible investment in health. A heated pool, of course, is a blessing for someone suffering from arthritis or recovering from polio. For the overworked executive or professional man badly in need of exercise, it's the most therapeutic discovery since black strap molasses, wheat germ, yogurt, and golf, not to mention royal jelly of the bee. We can't promise for sure, but it will probably increase your earning power.

It's January in New Jersey's miserable climate. The Pennsy has staggered in late again and you arrive home churning with anxieties. You're at the perigee of life's daily orbit. A plunge in the pool followed by a relaxing sun bath under a built in sun lamp. With snowy slush outside, gin and tonic inside is not inappropriate under such circumstances. Then dinner by candlelight with a restful view of the lapping water. Before bedtime, loll around in the soft caressing water in your own private indoor swimming pool. And then — the deep sleep of a man and woman whose lives are full and wonderful. . . .

Cancel those Southland reservations for the winter and invest your money instead in a pool where you can swim in 'tropical moonlight'—lush, warm, and lazy — every single night of your life, summer and winter.

We're on hand every day (except Wednesday) from noon until dusk to answer questions about building for you in Central New Jersey. (If an evening appointment is more convenient, call us at WAlnut 4-2782). You can attach a pool to your existing home, or one of our architects, or your own architect, can design a home specifically suited to the needs of you and your family. If you are looking for land, you may consult our register of building sites which you can purchase through your real estate broker or directly from the owner. Why not drop in for a chat at our Display Home? You'll be astonished at the low cost!

CONTROL OF THE H-BOMB

Matterhorn Seeks Solution. Physicists at the Forrestal Research Center's Project Matterhorn are slowly making progress toward their goal of controlling the hydrogen bomb reaction. Matterhorn and the other three United States efforts to release the power of the H-bomb, were declassified at the Atoms for Peace exhibit at Geneva.

The success of the long-range project would provide the world with power for a billion years if it consumed it at a thousand times its present rate. Although the Matterhorn group has not sustained the reaction yet, it has overcome a number of difficulties in the device being used.

Dr. Lyman Spitzer, director of Project Matterhorn and professor of astronomy at Princeton University, is the originator of the principle used at Forrestal which is known as the "Stellrator." He first thought of the idea in 1951 and, with the backing of the Atomic Energy Commission, began a project which now employs 225 persons here.

Matterhorn is the only one of the four American efforts using the Stellarator principle. Although both Germany and Russia are now working on this approach to the problem of controlling fusion, it was Dr. Spitzer's idea originally.

A number of small Stellarators at Matterhorn have given a great deal of information on the operation of the device, but the group is placing its future hopes on the large Model-C Stellarator now being built which will be ready for partial operation next year. This $24,000,000 machine will use as much power as the whole town of Princeton presently consumes.

Model-C combines what the physicists have learned about the Stellarator in their studies on the smaller machines. It will be a tube eight inches in diameter bent into the shape of a "race-track" 40 feet long, along with huge power generators.

Bomb Within a Bomb. The problem of producing the H-Bomb reaction is to keep "heavy hydrogen" gas together and to make it hot enough to react. The temperatures required are probably between 10 and 100 million degrees centigrade, which is supplied by an atomic bomb explosion in the hydrogen bomb.

Although temperature is often thought of as the controlling factor, Dr. Melvin Gottlieb, associate director of Matterhorn, stressed that now the main problem is containing the gas, not heating it. With temperatures of the order mentioned above, the gas would only have to be kept together for between a tenth and a hundredth of a second to produce a reaction.

The Stellarator keeps the hot gas in a doughnut-shaped tube and confines it by strong magnets. Problems involved are keeping the gas "stable" while it is heated, keeping out impurities, confining the gas, heating it, and attaining a good vacuum in the reaction tube.

Matterhorn physicists have managed to solve or partially solve a number of these problems by additions to their small stellarators. The final test, however, will be on the large, Model-C which is expected to permit the group to make previously impossible measurements.

Although Model-C will not be a prototype for future fusion reactors, it will provide a long-range program which may eventually lead to them. These huge reactors might be as large and have the same power output as a large hydroelectric plant such as Hoover Dam.

The power potential of the controlled fusion reactor is represented by the fact that as much energy could be gotten from one gallon of ordinary water as from 300 gallons of gasoline. The amount of material actually used in the Stellrators is less than a hundredth of a cubic centimeter of air at normal pressure and temperature.

TWO GRANTS RECEIVED

For Scientific Study. "High-resolution photography" of planets, galaxies and nebulae will be furthered by a $285,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to Princeton University's Department of Astronomy. The project will be directed by Dr. Martin Schwarzschild, who two years ago was in charge of the first high-altitude studies with a special sun telescope-camera.

Television will join the telescope in this new undertaking, which is scheduled to reach a climax in 1961. The improved systems in use will be equipped with TV and the telescope will be controlled from the ground to achieve remote-control pointing of the telescope at celestial objects.

The purpose of sending telescopes up in balloons is to raise the instruments far above the earth's surface, which obscures clear visibility of heavenly bodies. Telescopes, no matter how large, which are at ground level can never give better definition of objects at night than that given by a 12-inch instrument, because of such atmospheric obstruction.

Half-Million for Biology. The University has received a $570,000 grant toward construction of health research facilities from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The funds will be applied to the building of a new research laboratory in all areas of biology.

To be erected as an addition to Guyot Hall on the southeast portion of the campus, the laboratory will be started next spring. Design will be by the firm responsible for Firestone Library and will blend with Guyot Hall, which marks its first half-century next year.

"Open House" at YM-YW

Elaborate plans have been readied by Mrs. Heath Lacklider, chairman, and her large committee for the first "open house" at Princeton's sparkling, new YMCA-YWCA on Avalon Place. The program will be conducted from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. this Saturday, with all members of the Princeton Community invited to take a look-see sometime during the day.

According to the chairman, the red brick building will be staffed and manned by hosts and hostesses—board members, staff members and volunteers throughout the 11-hour period. Questions will be answered, tours will be scheduled and, to lend real authenticity to the special occasion, youth activities will be going on from 11 to 1 and adult activities from 8 to 10. From 3 to 5, guests will be given an opportunity to "meet the staff," including all instructors and other "Y" personnel.

Of particular interest, the handsome swimming pool quarters, still unfinished, will be open for inspection. "Y" officials have high hopes that contributions to complete the pool job may be prompted by this Saturday's "open house."

I WONDER IF THIS IS WHAT THE DEMOCRATS MEANT WHEN THEY SAID THEY WOULDN'T HAVE ANY MORE SECRET SESSIONS

The Democrats have gone back on a promise they never meant to keep. They know that many problems must be solved in closed sessions. Their real failure is that not only have they held more closed sessions but they also have not solved the big problems they promised "to attack with sustained vigor".

A major aspect of the Princeton center's work will be education. Dr. Moore and his committee hope to educate parents about the hazards of drugs in the home and the dangers that small children can encounter outside the home. It is the hope of the Center that its emergency cabinet and its education program will reduce the incidence of accidental poisonings in the community.

LICENSE REVOKED

Teen-Ager Loses Driving Rights. Francis Duva, 19, of 43 Oakland Road, had his license revoked for four months when he appeared before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tasha Monday on a careless driving charge. The defendant, whose offense had first been listed as driving while intoxicated, also paid a $30 fine.

Charles Van Note, 53, of 12 Charlton Street, paid $15 on a charge of hitting a dog with his automobile. Russell J. Reek, 23, 101 Little Hall, was fined $35 for speeding.

Leo A. Martin, 22, of 16 Bank Street, was placed on a year's probation after being charged with disorderly conduct and was fined $30. He was found wandering around Trinity Church grounds without ability to account for his presence there.

IT'S CONTINENTAL

Wining With Dining, That Is. The Nassau Tavern believes that modern Princetonians should eat and drink the way their ancestors did in the day of the Nassau Inn (the Tavern's predecessor). With this in mind, the Tavern last week held a private "Inaugural Dinner" to introduce "Continental Dining" which means, in the Tavern's lexicon, wine with each course.

George Washko, Tavern manager, says that old records of his hostelry describe a commencement dinner served on September 27, 1763, to 31 trustees of New Jersey College. The trustees consumed 11 bottles of Madeira, six bottles of claret, four double bowls of punch, a double bowl of toddy and six bottles of beer.

The 28 guests who attended last Thursday's dinner weren't quite that Continental on the occasion, but they did consume six different wines in the course of a seven-course dinner. Mr. Washko spent almost a year of research, stocking his cellar with appropriate foreign and domestic wines.

"Many people fail to follow the European practice of enjoying wine with meals because of the mistaken notion that an expert knowledge of wines is necessary," says Mr. Washko. "Actually, selection is simplified through the use of our informative wine list and suggestions from the wine steward."

The Continental dinner menu offered canapes with sherry and dubonnet, baked grapefruit, bortsch polonaise with sherry, baked stuffed boneless brook trout and Parisienne potatoes with Riesling Sylvaner, Beaulieu; roast beef with Gevrey—Chambertin, Rousseau, 1953; Belgian endive, asparagus with Mousseline sauce; cerises jubilees with champagne and liquers with coffee.

The Tavern's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Arrowsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Blaicher, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Dan D. Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Holliday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hurford, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Knight, William R. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Male, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Consolidation?

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In a recent issue, you noted that none of the candidates this fall had mentioned consolidation. The reason for silence in my own case has been a question in my mind whether a political campaign was a proper context for discussing this most nonpartisan of all local issues. But this may be one time when people are most prepared to think about such local matters.

Both Borough and Township are moving toward their own formal Master Plans. If two separate ones are adopted before we unite politically, a lot of work will have to be done over again. So I should like to present a few thoughts about consolidation.

I think we must provide an atmosphere free of the misunderstandings and needless anxieties that prevailed five years ago. There have been changes since 1953 that will help to do this. Many people in the Township have come since 1953 and cannot understand the rationality of Princeton's split political personality.

I gather that many Borough residents continue to be impressed with the apparent short-run advantages of separation. But I believe that changes are under way which will demonstrate to them the advantages of a politically united town.

What can be done to lay the groundwork for wide acceptance of a new consolidation plan? A study group of citizens should be set up and given modest funds by both municipalities. The group should:

(1) Find out what worries people about consolidation.

(2) Explore various plans that would accomplish the main objectives of consolidation while overcoming as many objections as possible.

(3) Report to Borough Council and Township Committee with recommendations that would serve as the basis for appointing a Joint Consolidation Commission, pursuant to state law.

I think we should begin informally in this way, devoting special attention from the outset to meeting any objections. This we could try to avoid the needlessly inflamed feelings we witnessed five years ago. I think we should get started now so that in November, 1959, we can go to the polls on consolidation, having experienced a dignified, informative and unifying community discussion.

Faith Needed in Teenagers.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The theme of the 1958 graduating class from Princeton High School was FAITH OR FEAR. The parents and teachers said we had picked an excellent topic.

They said we would need both faith and fear to get by in this world. They placed their faith in the graduating class.

Now when the youth of America needs the Faith of our parents and friends, all they give us is their fear. They fear the teenager's ability as a human. Yet they go on placing their faith in a machine, the car.

They even put their faith in the laps of the people who put temptation in the path of the teenager. This practice should, in my opinion, be reversed. Place the faith with the teenager and the fear with the manufacturers and the automobile dealers of America.

We don't blame a person for making a bet because it is a temptation. So why do you blame the teenager for giving in to the temptation of speeding? You have put that temptation there.

Take that temptation away by making the manufacturers put governors or speed controls on the cars and your problem will be solved. It will also help the adult who likes to speed.

Most of the teenagers of Princeton are basically well-behaved people. Given a chance, they can prove it, but the good must suffer and be punished for the work of a few.

So just take away the temptation, not our licenses. This method would also eliminate the temptation of speeding for the adults.

So, adults, take your faith away from the machines and give it to your children, the Youth of America, they need it more. Our fear belongs with automobiles that will tempt young and old to drive at the highest speeds possible.

Please don't ever lose faith in the teenager. The good outnumber the bad, but the good need your FAITH to help them stay that way.

Three's Enough.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

There is obviously no need in Somerset county for any more Freeholders. We now have a three men Board that meets very briefly on Friday mornings. They have nothing to do now of any consequence since the meetings usually last only about 15 minutes.

Adding two more Freeholders to the Board will only increase our tax burden by another $15,600 a year. It is unjust and unnecessary.

Our present Freeholders have refused to comment on this question which appears on the November ballot. They should say something about it one way or the other but it may be too much to expect of them.

The county debt has shot sky high in the past three years and the county budget went up almost half a million dollars in the same period. We need no more unnecessary expenses and we certainly don't need two more Freeholders supplied with county cars to add to the costs.

Voters of Somerset County should vote against increasing the size of the Board of Freeholders. What is needed on the Board is some new blood and some new ideas. The only candidate with any ideas is Franklin Township Committeeman, Mayo S. Sisler. I am sure that if he wins he will get the three men board to do their work and it will not be necessary to have a five man board for many years.

As the writer of this letter, I have been a resident for 14 years of Somerset County.

MADE BY THE BLIND

Sale of Articles. Sweaters, dolls, woven rugs, baby blankets and similar articles made by blind residents of New Jersey will be offered at a sale sponsored by Princeton Braillists, Inc.

The articles will be sold next Tuesday from 10 to 4 at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Link, 7 Chambers Terrace. All the items are reasonably priced, and the committee in charge suggests that they be purchased for Christmas presents.

LITTLEBROOK PTA TO MEET "Back To School" October 28.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Littlebrook School will hold its first meeting of the year Tuesday at 7:45. Paul Rappaport and Charles LaMontagne will direct the program, titled "Back To School Night." A short business meeting in the school's all-purpose room will precede the program.

The event will give parents an opportunity to meet their children's teachers and to gain a preview of work planned for the school year. Frank Haronian, school psychologist, and the special teachers for art, music, physical education and French will also be available to answer questions.

TRAINING SESSIONS SET

Girl Scout Council Program.

The Princeton Girl Scout council will offer four Monday evening training sessions beginning next Monday and running through November 17. All sessions will be held in the old "Y" building at 102 Witherspoon Street and will start at 8 p.m.

Mrs. O. M. Woodward, council member in charge of training, also noted that those unable to attend the evening sessions in Princeton may attend the Trenton Council's daytime course. These training classes are from 9 a.m. to noon and are scheduled for November 3, 8, 10, 13, 17 and 20 at the Army Reserve Center, Nottingham Way, Trenton.

DELTA GAMMA TO MEET

Mrs. Elmer Chase will Speak.

The Princeton-Trenton Delaware Valley Alumnae Association of Delta Gamma will mark the fifth anniversary of its founding Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Martin J. McDonald, 31 Queen Ann Road, Levittown, Pa.

Mrs. Elmer E. Chase of Hamilton Avenue, a charter member and a national officer of Delta Gamma, will be the speaker. The association's national project is work for the blind and it has assisted in the program of the Princeton chapter of Recording for the Blind. Educational aids have also been provided for Miss Agnes Stone, a blind teacher in the Borough public school system.

Why I Plan to Vote

REPUBLICAN

By William R. Bonthron

As a long-time resident of the Township and a Republican, I do not always vote the straight Republican ticket, particularly at the local level. I feel that there are rarely any significant political issues involved in local affairs and there shouldn't be.

So that the question of choice of candidate frequently rests entirely on the character and ability of the men seeking office. It seems to me that this is the situation which prevails this year. The men I can help elect to office, however, include Bill Dodge for Township Committeeman and Bob Kean for Senator.

It seems to me that of the two candidates for Township Committeeman Dodge is the logical choice because of his ready availability and demonstrated interest in Township problems. Being a commuter to New York myself, I am well aware of the difficulties of anyone attempting to devote time and efforts to local matters.

However great one's interest in a particular community may be, if he does not work in the vicinity he is not in a position to attend the ever-increasing number of meetings required by our growing Township. Dodge, in contrast to his opponent, has clearly shown that he has both the time and interest required by the office by his continued attendance at all the Township meetings throughout the year.

Dodge has other valuable attributes as well. He is a trained engineer. He has lived both in the Borough, and, presently, in one of the fastest-growing parts of the Township.

He has participated actively in many community affairs. This background suggests a broad and unique insight into our community problems. He will certainly get my vote in November.

For Senator, I will vote for Kean because of his excellent service record as a Congressman and the legislative objectives he will endorse as a member of the Senate. He is one of the ablest, hardest working, most honorable and fairest men in public life today.

In 20 years in Congress he has accomplished much in the field of taxes and social security legislation as a member of the Ways and Means Committee, which is both the most important and most powerful committee in the House. Bills introduced or supported by Kean include those which raised individual tax exemptions for taxpayers and their dependents from $500 to $600, the recently-passed small business tax relief bill and much of the legislation responsible for increasing the benefits and extending the coverage of our Social Security system.

His announced legislative objectives include further efforts in the field of social security, sound fiscal policies and further tax reductions as early as conditions will permit, improved labor legislation and a workable agriculture program involving a minimum of government control. While the foregoing may sound like a program endorsed by any aspirant for office, I believe that Kean through hard work alone stands an excellent chance of achieving some of the objectives and that you would have to be a rabid partisan not to vote for him.

DEMOCRATIC

By Kate E. Nicol

I am delighted that I am going to have another chance to vote for Bill Marvel for the Township Committee. When I examined the qualifications of the two candidates, the choice seemed to me so obvious that it is a little difficult to set down the reasons why I shall vote thus, but here are a few of them.

First, his unequalled qualifications for the job. Coupled with training of the highest order in the field of government, he is offering us a record of public service in the community which it would be difficult to better.

Second, his lifelong professional association with education. My main personal interest in the public affairs of the Township has been in education. While I am far from suggesting any serious lack of cooperation in educational matters from the Township Committee—indeed during the last years of my time on the Board of Education I noted a great improvement in this area—I still believe that at this time of practically volcanic expansion it is vital that we have on the Committee a man whose professional connections are in this field.

It is no criticism of the other members of the Committee to accept the obvious fact that Bill Marvel will be more vitally interested than they in the details of this expansion. Moreover, public duty will be reinforced by personal interest, as he has two small children, and is therefore himself vitally concerned as a consumer of our educational product.

Third, I do not believe that it is ever healthy for a governing body to have a monopoly. Every now and then health demands that someone take an entirely new look, a look which will be critical in the best sense of the word.

It is virtually impossible for this to be done by new additions to the Committee such as we have been having in the past. New members who have been approved, if not sponsored, by the existing body, are simply not in a position, nor in a frame of mind, to take the unbiased look at the situation which I think is needed by every governing body from time to time.

I believe that Bill Marvel will take just such a look, with many good results. I believe that if there is an answer to some of the questions that we have been asking, he will get it for us. More about that in a minute.

Not only will he be taking such a look, but a departure from routine party recruitment from the ranks will, I believe, stimulate such a look from all the other members of the Committee. I cannot see how this can be anything but healthy.

Fourth, the rapid growth of our community is producing problems which must be met with real imagination and good feeling if they are not to plague us for many years to come. One of the most compelling reasons for a vote for Bill Marvel is his fair and liberal approach to these problems.

Fifth, a specific problem which has been bothering me and a lot of other people for a long time. Next to education, I suppose that I personally have been most interested in the recreational facilities of our town.

Frankly, I consider that they are simply disgraceful, and I make no bones about saying that I believe the responsibility for this lies right at the door of our local governments. Even had they not been repeatedly entreated to do something about it, if they had been on the job they would have done something anyway.

We all know that the major recreational requirement of this community is a public swimming pool. No number of public playgrounds and wading pools can alter that simple fact. I don't believe that we are such a poverty-stricken community that we can't afford one. Public spirited citizens have worn themselves out urging the importance of this project on our Township Committee, and proving to it the public

THE LOOM'S IN THE ROOM: Lore Lindenfeld does her weaving on a loom that stands in a sunny corner of the family living-room. The Lindenfeld's house on Harris Road is small, but its modern open design leaves plenty of room for the loom that is Mrs. Lindenfeld's "easel." For additional information on this young textile designer, see story this page.

Topics Of The Town

A WEAVER AT HOME

She Designs Textiles. Weaving used to be a skill that every housewife had, quite literally, at her fingertips. Today, weaving is a hobby. But it is also an exacting profession and it is practiced on that level by a young Princeton mother, Lore Lindenfeld.

Mrs. Lindenfeld designs fabrics for textile mills. The startling new tweed you see on a model in Vogue magazine may have come from her design board some time last year. ("You work ahead in the fashion industry," says Mrs. Lindenfeld.) A fascinating cotton and silk combination, a group of cotton pastels for resort wear — her versatility covers every part of the fashion scene.

"When you are a professional textile designer, you work for one mill," Mrs. Lindenfeld explains. "Free-lancing is rare. A mill wants someone who is familiar with its own peculiar technical set-up and so it relies on its own crew of designers."

Mrs. Lindenfeld is basically an artist. She went to Black Mountain College with the idea of majoring in art, but when she found the looms, she decided to combine art and craft and become a textile designer.

At the moment, she is on maternity leave while she takes care of her three-month-old daughter, but she does her weaving and designing at home, so that career and daughter do not necessarily present a conflicting pattern. The Lindenfelds have lived in Princeton for a year. Mr. Lindenfeld is in the physics department at Rutgers.

Before taking her leave, Mrs. Lindenfeld worked four years for the cotton mills of Herbert Meyer, Inc. She also spent two years designing woolens and worsteds for Forstmann.

"A hobbyist can let his fancy roam, so far as weaving goes," Mrs. Lindenfeld says, "but a professional designer must create things that can be adapted to power loom techniques. Mechanization has meant limitation in textile design. There are various kinds of power looms and one must have years of experience and training in order to develop designs that are best for different looms."

A colorful pile of swatches, tumbled out on the Lindenfeld's dining-room table shows the range of the weaver's imagination and skill.

There is an all-over check that looks like a spiral hounds-tooth, if there is such a thing; a very fine basketweave; big, stadium plaids for college girls; a textured tweed that coordinates with a plaid in the same colors; a wool and cotton tweed for a dress suit; cotton and silk in a multigrey rib; a fabric that wound up being waterproofed and sewn into a Sherbrooke raincoat.

All of these designs follow the fashion trend, that nebulous and shadowy thing which the designer must try to predict months ahead of time by studying present fashions and trying to decide which way they will go.

The designer must also consider the purpose of her fabric: will it be made into a stiff, mantailored suit, a soft dressmaker suit, a wool dress with drapery? She can experiment, but only within sharply defined limits set by the machinery her mill uses, the way in which certain yarns combine and so on.

Just for fun, at Black Moun-acceptance of the idea by means of local polls.

Presumably there must be some compelling reason not only why we may not have a pool, but why the Committee finds it unwise or unnecessary even to look into the matter seriously. Bill Marvel assures me that if there is some such compelling reason, he will find it out and make it public.

These are some of the reasons why I consider myself fortunate to be able to vote for Bill Marvel on November 4, and why I am confident that he will be elected.

SAYING THEIR TWO CENTS' WORTH. Edward G. Warren (right) and Arthur J. Tighe, a pair of longtime Princeton residents, have an opinion or two about downtown businesses remainging open Friday evening and metered parking the same nights. So do other residents. For their thoughts, see Question of the Week below.

Question of the Week

Question: What are your thoughts about the Princeton Business Association's concerted effort to keep downtown stores open Friday evenings, and Borough Council's plan to keep meters in operation in support of this effort?

Location: Nassau Street.

Edward G. Warren, 92 Snowden Lane, salesman for Turney Motor Company: Both seem to be very good ideas to me. I've always felt downtown businesses should remain open at least one night a week and, if the Princeton Business Association thinks it will help business, I'm glad Council wants to go along with the request for active meters Friday evenings.

Arthur J. Tighe, 694 Prospect Avenue Extension, accountant at Public Service: Being a longtime resident of Princeton, I feel that —if it's going to help downtown business—I'm all for metered parking one night a week. Anyhow, let's give it a try, and, if it doesn't prove successful, we can go back to the old way.

Marilyn Lowe, Cranbury, secretary at Nassau Motor Company: I don't think meters should be continued in operation Friday evenings. Half the time you get caught in stores and spend more time than you expect—and wind up with a police ticket. I do endorse the idea of Friday night openings, however, because most of us don't have time to complete our shopping during lunch hours. Incidentally, I'm a bowler and I'd like to defend my colleagues, who have been accused of using key parking spaces in the evenings. Most bowlers use off-street spaces and, anyhow, a lot of us who bowl Friday evenings don't even start until nine, when the shops will be closing.

Mrs. James Shriver, 635 Snowden Lane, housewife and part-time saleswoman at Mary Chapin's: Actually, I wouldn't shop Friday nights because I only work part-time, but I can certainly see how it would be a boon to working people. At Christmas time, though, it would be fun to shop at night—particularly since my husband and I could go together. The thing I'd like most is to have food stores open late Saturday night for those unexpected week end guests!

Richard Edwards, 263 Harrison Street, retired RCA employee: To begin with, I can see the downtown business being open Friday evenings, but on an individual basis, not organized as a PBA move. As far as the meters are concerned, I think the merchants are doing themselves a disfavor by asking for them. People like to take their time shopping, they like to browse around, they don't want to be bothered by meter worries. I'd sooner go to the Shopping Center, where there's free parking, than fight the battle of downtown meters at night. Believe me, the PBA is cutting its own throat by requesting meters!

Mrs. Robert C. Sanders Jr., Cranbury Road, Grovers Mill, housewife: Yes, I think it's a very good idea to have the downtown stores open one night a week, and Friday night is the most convenient time for my shopping. It wouldn't make any difference as far as I'm concerned whether there was metered parking or not.

Bernard Weinstein, 86 Nassau Street, proprietor of Princeton Stationers: Being that the downtown businesses are such a great source of tax money in the Borough, I think it's only right that the businesses should benefit by staying open Friday nights. This will aid in raising more money for the business people who, in return, will be able to meet their tax obligations easier. The Council should push metering Friday evenings. I feel Princeton businesses have never requested too much from the city fathers, so their owners—as citizens—are certainly just in demanding this much, or, if I may say so, this little.

Crucial Three Hours

If the Princeton Business Association has its way—and Borough Council apparently will see that it does—curbside parking meters in the Central District will remain in operation from 6 to 9 p.m. each Friday. Already, some 80-plus downtown Princeton merchants have started keeping their stores open Friday evenings during the "extra" three hours involved.

Do Princetonians in general want Princeton shops to stay open one evening every week? Is Friday the right day? Do the merchants themselves want to extend their hours one night each week? Do the merchants and/or the customers want metered parking in downtown Princeton while the stores remain open? These are the pertinent queries which Question of the Week has sought this week to shed some light on.

If you are still in the dark, or have some helpful comment to make regarding the Friday evening situation, you are asked to contact the Princeton Business Association (WA 4-5645).

FOUNDERS' DAY LUNCHEON

Alumnae Group to Meet. The Mercer County Alumnae Club of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity will hold its Founders' Day Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. next Thursday in the Nassau Tavern. Mrs. John Johnson of Trenton will report on the rehabilitation program of the organization's national convention this past summer.

Officers of the group are: Mrs. Harvey Harmon, president; Mrs. George Bush, vice-president; Mrs. David Johnson, recording secretary; Mrs. Cary King, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Albert Elsasser, treasurer. Committee chairmen include: Mrs. Bush, program; Mrs. George Wintringer, membership; Mrs. Robert Elodine, recommendations; Mrs. Mark Jones, ways and means; Mrs. John Johnson, rehabilitation; Mrs. Elsasser, pan-Hellenic; and Mrs. W. B. Doryee, magazines.

OPERATION PRE-ATTACK

CD Exercise Slated. All county and municipal Civil Defense organizations—but not the general public—will take part in "Operation Pre-Attack," a state-wide Civil Defense exercise which will be held this Thursday at 7 p.m.

The only public action signal will be the Alert: a steady three-minute tone on sirens, factory whistles or horns. The training session will last about two hours and during this period, local and county organizations will activate every CD volunteer and test the readiness of each CD service.

CD officials will assume that acts of sabotage have been committed. Volunteers will establish welfare centers, move equipment in convoy and set up local incidents which will demonstrate to the public that Civil Defense is vital and effective.

Red Cross volunteers, Boy Scouts and Rescue Squads throughout the State will also be called into action. "Operation Pre-Attack is the beginning of a series of exercises leading up to "Operation Alert 1959," a national demonstration to be held in May, according to Thomas S. Dignan of Princeton, acting state director of Civil Defense.

SO. BRUNSWICK POLITICS

Candidates to Speak Twice. Both candidates for the South Brunswick Township Committee will appear Thursday and Friday nights, October 30 and 31, Lester H. Sohl, Democratic incumbent, and Warren G. Parmenter, Republican nominee will speak and answer questions at each session.

The Thursday forum will be sponsored by the recently-formed South Brunswick League of Women Voters. It is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Dayton School Auditorium and will feature the candidates' answers to the questions: "What do you consider to be the most important problem facing the township presently?" and "How do you propose to begin solving it during the next three years?"

On the following night, voters will again have a chance to hear and question the candidates at a meeting at 8:30 p.m. at the Cambridge School under the auspices of the Kendall Park Civic Association. The two rivals will be given equal time to discuss their platform and party, followed by a question period.

Mr. Sohl, of Plainsboro, is a fuel oil and gasoline dealer, a director of the Cranbury Savings and Loan Association and is currently serving as police commissioner and township representative to the Recreation Council. His opponent, Mr. Parmenter, a Deans resident, is a management liaison engineer with the Walworth Company and has been active in the Dayton Parent-Teacher Association.

FUND DRIVE TO OPEN

For Browns Mills Institution. The Deborah Sanatorium and Hospital of Browns Mills will open its drive for funds next Monday. The campaign by the non-sectarian institution which provides free treatment for all tubercular, lung, heart and cancer patients will run until November 30.

Joseph Hoff is honorary chairman of the drive, while Mrs. Henry Abrams is chairman; Harry Ballot, treasurer; Sames Floyd, secretary; and Mrs. Helen Feddy, financial secretary. Other members of the committee include: Mrs. Louis Abrams, Mrs. William Abrams, Mrs. Abe Brown Mrs. James Floyd, Mrs. Milton

Report from THE MAYOR

Under Way. On Friday morning the Mayor and the Public Safety Committee of Council — Police Commissioner Farr and Councilmen Mather and Coyle — met at Borough Hall with Dean Donal MacNamara as the study of the police department got under way. For almost two hours there was a thorough exchange of views, facts and philosophy about the Borough's police organization and program.

The Dean said he welcomed the opportunity to undertake the Princeton study and looked forward to interviews with each of the officers and men of the police force as part of his study. The project will probably be completed within a month.

A Meeting of the Minds. Prior to his appointment by Mayor and Council to head Princeton's Civil Defense and Disaster Control program, Capt. Geoffrey Sage reviewed with the Mayor his views on the importance of the disaster control function and the need for full cooperation from the governing bodies and the community at large.

Capt. Sage plans an evaluation of the needs and an inventory of the resources available to meet them. The Borough has agreed to provide adequate space for records and equipment and, with the Township, will supply secretarial help necessary to the preparation of complete disaster plans.

Princeton will undoubtedly benefit from his experience and his enthusiasm for this difficult assignment. In accepting the resignation of his predecessor, Col. Darke, the Council voted an expression of its appreciation for his services over the past several years.

Surprise Approval. Mayor and Council were pleasantly surprised by the early approval by Washington of the Project Report on Urban Renewal. A few items of unfinished business still remain, but the major requirements of the Federal government have been met.

On the future agenda for Council: amendments to the housing code to provide housing occupancy standards, further documentation of the Borough's claim for full credit as a supporting facility for the Witherspoon parking lot, and a full public hearing as required by State and Federal law. On Tuesday, the Council authorized the Housing Authority to exercise certain rehabilitation powers pursuant to a 1956 State statute. This will be an important part of maintaining the integrity of Green Street as a residential area.

New Business. The past week saw two new business ventures in the Borough—the King's Court colonial restaurant and the espresso coffee house, El Fiasco. Further news of the strengthening of the business aspects of the Borough is expected as urban renewal, increased parking facilities and new and expanded business combine to provide mounting evidence of a revitalized commercial activity. All of this is important to Borough residents both from the services rendered and from the standpoint of the tax ratables provided by a healthy business community.

Thursday Open House. The weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will again be held on Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is necessary for these informal meetings.

Last week's session was punctuated by a large number of phone calls from those who had a quick question about some phase of Borough activity. The number is WAlnut 4-3118.

BUSINESS In Princeton

HEALTHY GROWTH

Art Services Now Many. When the idea behind Princeton Art Services was first conceived two years or so ago, it was simply the brainchild of one ambitious Princetonian operating out of his own studio apartment. Wilson T. Airey Jr. of 175 Nassau Street, then a refugee from Opinion Research Corporation, reasoned it was logical—and it might be profitable—for a small concern to offer a fast-expanding town "limited art services."

By today, Mr. Airey has discovered his original idea was most logical and, while not particularly profitable to date, may well prove quite profitable before the firm is much older. His operation is still located in his upstairs studio apartment, but it has expanded from one drawing board to three, from one employee to five and from "limited art services" to many.

In addition to a young but capable secretary, Miss Penny Rampona, PAS has its director, Mr. Airey; a second experienced artist, James F. Skinner 3d; and two specialists, H. Morgan Holman Jr. and Joseph Messineo. Mr. Holman has taken over control of a brand-new division of PAS, North-Light Interiors (devoted to the decorating of homes, offices and other commercial endeavors), while Messineo has been assigned the dual job of salesman and operator for PAS' show card machine (devoted to the printing of all types of signs).

All members of the enthusiastic PAS combine have enjoyed considerable experience in their chosen fields. Mr. Airey and Mr. Skinner, artists in charge of the main functions of the business, trained at the Newark School of Fine Arts and the School of Visual Arts in New York City, respectively. Mr. Holman was formerly employed by Parsons School in New York City. Mr. Messineo studied at Trenton Junior College in its School of Industrial Arts.

According to director Airey, PAS boasts the equipment and manpower today to provide "unlimited art services," a tremendous switch in two years' time. Included are advertising art, package design, booklets, brochures, pamphlets, charts, visuals, slides, mechanicals, cartoons, posters, greeting cards, maps, lettering and ad layouts.

PAS, actively engaged in numerous local projects, including the forthcoming "open house" campaign for Educational Testing Service, offers a number of services provided by larger concerns in bigger cities. "But we're still proud of our small-town approach," Mr. Airey observed this week. "Ask any of our customers. When they come up, we serve coffee, talk things over informally and have a good time."

Unscrambled Eggs

When a farm has 3,000 chickens laying some 5,000 eggs every day, it has problems—if said eggs must be collected by hand. That was the unhappy realization of workers at Indian Camp Poultry Farm on Quaker Bridge Road, who followed such "by-hand" procedure until recently.

Then, with a helpful assist from George Parker of Monmouth Junction, Indian Camp's Vaccaro brothers became the second farm in New Jersey to institute an automatic egg collector and "cut every angle of back-breaking egg collection."

It's a very simple process, according to Joseph Vaccaro, one of the local farm's proprietors. Instead of going from hen pen to hen pen and picking up the eggs, the pens are now situated on a light slant and the eggs roll casually onto a conveyor belt, which transports them quickly—and unbrokenly—to the packaging department.

NASSAU BARBERS MOVED

To 20 Nassau Street. In a short move from 80 Nassau, the Nassau Barber Shop opened for business Monday at 20 Nassau Street. The space had been used by Educational Testing Service.

The enterprise had been located at its old address for 30 years.

NEW MAN JOINS STAFF

Special Studies Associate. Sidney Rowland has joined the staff of Special Studies, Inc., as a Research Associate. According to Robert S. Arthur, president of the firm at 86 Nassau, Mr. Rowland will supervise data processing of all studies undertaken by the new corporation.

Mr. Rowland, who majored in mathematics at Ohio Wesleyan University, comes to Special Studies from Gallup and Robinson, Inc. where he was a study director. He lives at 6 Barnett Road, Nassau Estates.

Special Studies was formed early this month to conduct studies in the fields of market, opinion and social research.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

Student Service Enlarged. The Princeton Student Answering Service has expanded its activities by subscribing to the Princeton Telephone Answering Service. The student group will also now accept calls for the Tiger Tot Tenders.

This means that parents who use the campus baby-sitting organization may now leave messages for their tot tender any time during the 24 hours of the day, seven days a week. The number to call is WA 4-1890. In addition, the University switchboard will now refer all calls for individual students to the P.S.A.S. at the same number.

Music In Princeton

given this year by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra. The concert will be given on Monday, November 10, at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter Theater.

Rudolf Serkin is the soloist of the evening and he will be heard in Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 5, the "Emperor." The program will open with Handel's "Water Music," and for this performance, Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor of the orchestra, will use a transcription of the work which was made for large orchestras by Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Stravinsky's Suite No. 2 will conclude the program.

MUSIC CLUB WILL MEET

Princeton Artiste to Perform. The Princeton Music Club will hold its first meeting of the year next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Elmer Beller on Ridgeview Road. The program will be given by Janice Harsanyi, soprano, Mathilde McKinney, Sylvia Nichols and Louise Strunsky, pianists; and Helen Tas, violinist. Mrs. Tas will play a Brahms Sonata for violin and Mrs. McKinney will play the Davids Bundlertanze of Schumann.

On November 18, the Music Club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. McKim Norton of Lafayette Road to hear a performance of Bela Bartok's "Contrasts," played by George M. Jones, clarinet; Joseph Kovacs, violin and James Reginald Wilson, piano. Mrs. Horatio Gil, mezzo-soprano of Franklin Park, will sing.

Asa S. Boshnell, 71 Palmer Square, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, was a guest of honor for "Achievement Day" in his birthplace, Springfield, O., which took the occasion to dedicate a $5,750,000 water treatment plant. Other Springfield "natives" on hand for the special event were George P. Larrick, commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration; A.B. Graham, founder of the 4-H Club movement; James G. Stewart and Charles B. Zimmerman, Ohio Surpreme Court justices; John Vlahos, a top television writer; and Brooks Lawrence and Harvey Haddix, Cincinnati Redlegs' pitchers.

Miss Maija Merzinsky, 22 Moore Street, has received a Deborah B. Waksman Music Scholarship for her sophomore year at Douglass College. Miss Merzinsky, a Princeton High School graduate, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Merzinsky.

Christian E. Smith, Route 206, Belle Mead, is one of the 83 students entering Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif., this fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Douglas Smith.

Army Pvt. William E. Harris, Montgomery Avenue, Rocky Hill, has almost completed eight weeks of advanced artillery training at Fort Chaffee, Ark. Private Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris, graduated from Princeton High School and received his basic training at Fort Dix.

Miss Carol Maxwell, 208 Laurel Circle, has been pledged to Alpha Omicron Pi sorority at Denison University. Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Maxwell, she is a freshman at the Granville, Ohio, school.

Miss Rosaline M. Constantino, staff assistant at Educational Testing Service, attended the National Office Management Association Area II conference in Atlantic City. She was appointed secretary to record all creative ideas expressed at one of the round tables, and served in a similar capacity at Saturday's general meeting of the conference.

FOR THE SICK AND HUNGRY: Ever anxious to support worthy causes, Mrs. Robert G. Meyner this week made the community's first contribution to the 1958 UNICEF drive (see story, page 28). Misses Barbara Perkins (left) and Helen Harbison of Princeton High School, co-chairman of the UNICEF committee, said they hope the wife of New Jersey's governor has launched a successful $1800 campaign, set for November 1. TIGERS READY TO ROLL

Fifth Game a Keynoter. Over a period of the last seven or eight years, the fifth game (always Cornell) on Princeton's schedule has generally provided a clear indication of how much of an attack the Tigers can be expected to generate for their climactic November games. If the Orange and Black takes charge of the Ithacans in handy fashion, it can usually be expected to give a strong account of itself against Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth.

Both of Princeton's unbeaten elevens (1950 and 1951) exploded against the Red, winning 27-0 and 53-15, at a time when Cornell itself fielded undefeated teams for the Palmer Stadium contest. A year ago, Dick Colman's eleven broke the game against Lefty James' operatives open with a four-touchdown fourth-period surge, winning 47 to 14. In November, they were good enough to roll for four touchdowns against Harvard and five against Dartmouth while nailing down the Ivy championship.

Off the performance that Princeton gave in trouncing a big Colgate eleven, 40 to 13, last Saturday, the Tigers should show Cornell a good deal more than it can handle Saturday in Ithaca. Princeton blocking continues to improve, its passing difficulties are slowly being ironed out and the backfield depth begins to be somewhat eye-popping.

While Dan Sachs and Jack Sullivan sat out the contest with assorted bangs and bruises, Princeton relied on Hugh Scott, Dick George and Ray Empson to fill the vital tailback slot. In the first three games, this trio had run a combined total of just six plays from the four-back position and showed a minus yardage for their joint efforts. Against Colgate, they ran and passed for a total of 167 yards and produced five touchdowns among them.

Good line play, fine single wing strategy invoked by quarterback Mike Ippolito and some picturesque running from Captain Fred Tiley and sophomore Mike Iseman in the fullback and wingback slots all contributed to the success enjoyed by the reserve tailbacks. Nonetheless, it is distinctly unusual to see a trio as far down on the depth chart as they were when the season began take charge of a running game as quickly as happened on Saturday.

Ivy Football Forecast

PRINCETON over Cornell. Tigers a bit stronger everywhere.

Navy over Penn. Middies mad after loss to Tulane.

Brown over Rhode Island. Bruins have good offense.

Columbia over Buffalo. Even though Bisons beat Harvard.

Dartmouth over Harvard. Indians have better backs.

Yale over Colgate. Elis ought to take this one.

Particularly picturesque was the contribution of sophomore Hugh Scott. He ran or passed 24 times, scored two touchdowns and a two-point conversion and showed how ability to use interference time and again, and to cut back when the defense overshifted can make up for a basic lack of speed. He was easily the sportswriters' choice as "back of the day."

Colman Content. In three of the last four years, Colgate has beaten Princeton twice and tied a third game, so that the manner in which the Tigers chalked up Saturday's victory was a clear-cut pleasure to the coaching staff. Dick Colman considered the performance "very encouraging" and liked the "poise and confidence" which the team had shown.

Rolling for 26 points before yielding one and enjoying a three-touchdown lead at the end of the first half, the home forces split the big Colgate line through use of deception time and again. With Scott sweeping the flanks, Tiley averaged four yards through the middle on the guard trap play that found the losers' spread to stop Scott or Iseman on wingback reverses.

Princeton went 84 yards in 19 plays as soon as it got the opening kickoff. A fumble that tackle Bob Fisher, top Tiger lineman last week, recovered on the losers' 26 set up the second touchdown, and they went 57 yards in just five plays for their third.

The second half kickoff also prompted a touchdown march, a dozen plays covering 74 yards with Ippolito passing prettily down the middle for 23 yards and six points to wingback John Heyd. After the visitors struck back with two TD's to narrow the margin to 26-13, Princeton got them back in the final period—both on short runs by Ray "Splinter" Empson.

Much of the story of the game was spun by the extremely adamant defense the Tigers produced While they were running up 18 points, 211 yards and 15 first downs, they held the losers to no points, no first downs and just 15 yards.

Cornell Uses "Slot T." On the theory that his offense could only be improved by a radical change, Lefty James has installed the "slot T" at Ithaca and, off the Red's current 3-1 record, it has apparently paid off. His last two teams have won only four while losing 14, and Cornell hasn't had as good a season as 6 and 3 since 1951, so this year's improvement is most welcome.

The "slot T" spreads the ends wide, with a halfback between right tackle and right end. All three players (the two ends and the halfback) stand up straight while the signals are being called, although exactly what they gain by this non-conforming position preceding a center snap is difficult to determine.

SPLIT BY THE SPLINTER: Ray Empson, 148-lb. Princeton tailback whom Princetonians love to refer to as "Splinter Empson," drives through two burly Colgate defenders for a fourth-period touchdown. The slim Nassau senior weighs 65 pounds less than the average lineman who started the game for the Red Raiders. Tigers romped to 40-13 triumph.

The Ithacans have a good first team but are not solid in reserve strength. Their line is about the same size as Princeton's (around 198-99 pounds) and Norman Juvonen, 6-1, 190-lb. end, is their best man up front. They have lettermen everywhere save at center and left guard.

Senior Tom Skypeck, 6-2, 190 pounds, is the quarterback and rates as a good passer and better than average runner. His immediate replacement is a sophomore, Marcello Tino, solidly-built 195-pounder.

The slot is filled by John Webster, 175-lb. halfback who is probably the Ithacans' best running back. Terry Wilson and Phil Taylor round out the starting backfield; Captain Bob Hazzard, a good fullback, has been hurt most of the season and does not figure to see much action against the Tigers.

Cornell will bank on speed and Skypeck's passing to upend the Tigers, something it has not accomplished since 1954. In fact, if Princeton wins Saturday, it will

JOE DEDEO
Princeton Guard

Six weeks ago, Dick Colman told Town Topics that "our line from tackle to tackle is weaker than it has been at any time in the last five years." Today, as Princeton heads into the climactic portion of its Ivy League schedule, the Tiger line has clearly outplayed the last three it has faced, and there are indications it can hold its own with any of the next five it will meet.

One of the primary reasons for the steady improvement is the play of senior Joe DeDeo, who has held the starting assignment at right guard in every contest this fall. Each week, when Colman holds his Sunday post-game press conferences at Osborn Field House, the 21-year-old resident of Livingston, N. J., has come in for special mention as one who stood out for the Tigers.

The Tiger coach could hardly have given DeDeo a higher rating than he did after Princeton's uphill second-half rally against Pennsylvania. "That day," Colman commented, "Joe played the best guard we have seen around here since Brad Glass." Glass, who raised such hob with the opposition while Princeton was losing just one game from 1950 through '52, is rated as one of Princeton's all-time players in that position, along with Jac Weller '36 and the late Stan Keck '22.

DeDeo came up to the varsity the long, hard way, learning his football on the junior varsity. Players there serve as opposition for the Tiger regulars during the week and are then sometimes overmatched on Saturday against squads which soup up their personnel to achieve a one-sided triumph.

A solidly built 200-pounder, DeDeo has had the versatility to play as many as five different positions in prep school and college. At Delbarton, he alternated as halfback and quarterback; as a freshman, he was a quarterback and center; on the varsity squad, he has been an end and now a guard.

"Key blocks" are about all the limelight a lineman can expect to have turned his way, but the Princeton senior already has a big one to his credit this season. While Princeton was still battling to come from behind against Penn, DeDeo peeled back under a punt and threw a block that took out two tacklers and gave tailback Jack Sullivan leeway for a 66-yard return. A Tiger touchdown followed a play later.

Princeton is currently in a three-way tie for the Ivy leadership with Dartmouth and Cornell. If the Orange and Black topples the Ithacans from their share of the top rung on the ladder this Saturday, Joe DeDeo's steadily-improving play at guard will have a good deal to do with it.

mark the first time that either team in the long series has topped the other four straight years.

Tigers Near Full Strength. For the first time since the season began, there was a possibility this week that Princeton might have all its key players ready for at least spot duty. This included tailback Dan Sachs, whose back bruise in the Penn game did not prove as severe as had first been indicated, and also Frank Schultz, highly-capable 195-lb. tackle who won his letter as a sophomore.

Schultz was feared lost for the season when headaches he had experienced last fall began again at Blairstown. However, they have since disappeared, he has complete medical clearance and returned to full-scale practice this week. Although the Tiger line and its replacements have come along steadily, he will prove extremely valuable in the weeks ahead.

Jack Sullivan, who sustained a severe muscle pull in the Penn contest, was also a possibility for action against Cornell. With both Sachs and Sullivan as question marks, there was a question as to which of the three tailbacks Princeton would start. Off what each has shown to date, any one will be satisfactory, but additional depth might prove vital insurance.

With victories over Colgate (by two touchdowns) and Harvard and Yale (by one) offsetting the non-Ivy rout by Syracuse (55-0), Cornell is clearly a better team than it was in 1957. Nonetheless, it cannot match the Tigers in depth along the line, and Princeton has three good backs for every one the Ithacans can field. A 47-14 victory is unusual, and last year's margin is quite unlikely to be repeated, but Princeton figures to win by two or three TD's in what may be a free-scoring affair.

"MUST" GAME FOR PHS

Title Hopes Hang On It. When the Little Tigers of Princeton High travel to Trenton this Saturday for their 2 p.m. football engagement with Trenton Catholic, "all the marbles" — so to speak — will be put on the line. This is a "must" game for Coach Joe Jingoli's Blue and White forces, for they must win or be eliminated from contention in their now-frantic fight to retain the mythical Mercer County championship.

PHS lost its intracounty opener to Trenton High last Friday, 18-13, in a thriller-diller. Catholic's Wave already has walloped Ewing, 26-0, so, with football less Hamilton out of the Mercer scramble in '58, TC needs only a triumph over Princeton to assure a share of the title. Trenton High has a 3-1 record as a result of its 6-0 loss to Ewing and its upset victory over PHS, so any Tornado titular ideas will hinge on its later session with Catholic.

Now somewhat pessimistic about his club's intracounty chances, Jingoli said Monday, "If we play like we did last week, I don't see how we can beat anybody on our schedule—and we've still got four big games to go. We simply made too many mistakes."

The affable head coach wasn't kidding. Hitherto unbeaten Princeton (now 3-1) committed two grievous errors in the second period against hitherto all-beaten THS (now 1-3) — a fumble and a faulty pass — and, as a direct result of the miscues, the Tornadoes tallied two touchdowns in four minutes. Midway through the third quarter, another PHS bobble gave the victorious visitors their telltale TD.

THS "Up" For PHS Clash. These references to Little Tiger errors should in no way diminish the lustre of Trenton's inspired triumph. The Tornadoes, without a single point in three previous encounters, were "up" for PHS — as predicted by many observers of the keen rivalry — and they gained an edge in the overall statistics. With first downs even at 11 each, they picked up 126 yards on the ground to Princeton's 109 and, while they completed only three of six passes, they stayed all-too-close in the aerial battle with 67 yards to PHS' 73 (on 12 of 19 completions!)

Trenton recovered its initial TD-aiding fumble near the PHS 36-yard line and intercepted the pivotal pass on the Little Tigers' 48. Its third-period score came on a 23-yard romp following a fumble. Meanwhile, the Blue and White marched 77 yards to take an early 7-0 lead in the first period and 36 yards in the fourth stanza to close the gap to 18-13. A 14-yard toss from tailback Butch Cross to wingback Jack Hawkins and a boot by Cross accounted for the early points, while a three-yard plunge by fullback Edgar Riddick completed the PHS scoring.

For the first time this season, Princeton played the "off" game expected of any team—hopefully, only once during a given campaign. The offense was generally bad and the pass defense was worse. Trenton mustered a hard-hitting eight-man line that forced six fumbles, two of which the Tornadoes recovered on key plays, and resulted in seven off-mark PHS passes, two of which went for damaging interceptions by THS.

A bruised forearm took Princeton tackle Dave McKee out of action early in the proceedings, while an injured shoulder hurt Riddick's customary effectiveness. But these were not sufficient excuses for Princeton's lack of drive when it counted most. Dave Kilgour was outstanding on defense for PHS; otherwise, the less said about last week the better.

PCD ELEVEN WINS

Short Hills 21-12 Victim. Taking a three-touchdown lead before it allowed the opposition to score twice in the closing minutes, Princeton County Day School opened its football season last week with a victory over Short Hills Country Day. It was a 21-12 final.

Following a scoreless first period, Captain Charlie Stuart's 24-yard pass to end Joe Coffee gave the victors their first TD. Before the half ended, Stuart ran through tackle for a second touchdown and he added a third on a quarterback sneak soon after the intermission. All three conversions were good.

Short Hills rallied against PCD reserves for a pair of touchdowns in the last quarter. The Hun School freshmen will provide Country Day with its second-game foe this Friday at 3 on the Broadmead gridiron.

The Blue and White soccer team will face Peddie Friday in its third game this fall. Valley Road trimmed the PCD booters last week, 2-1, setting their 1958 record at one tie and one loss.

HOMECOMING AT HUN

Tower Hill Tough Foe. Beefy Hun School, unbeaten and unscored-on in three impressive football victories this fall, will play its 1958 Homecoming game Saturday against perennially potent Tower Hill of Wilmington. ton this weekend—at 2:30 o'clock.

After edging Germantown Friends, 8-0, for their most difficult shutout verdict to date, the Johnny Huns will go into their second straight toss-up contest when the Delaware visitors come to town. Off comparative '58 results, Saturday's encounter must be figured that way. True, Tower Hill walloped Germantown Friends two weeks ago, 47-16—BUT the Wilmington club earlier dropped its first decision in 22 consecutive outings to Sanford Prep, 20-7, and Sanford then lost to Germantown, 7-6.

Last Friday's "squeaker" over the Friends was a nip-and-tuck affair, as expected, though the Red and Black threatened more often than the Pennsylvanians and deserved the hard-earned victory. Among other harrowing things, Hun receivers bobbled two clear-cut touchdown passes after reaching the Germantown 20-yard-line on two of four occasions. The lone TD of the day was fashioned by right halfback Alan Landis, who intercepted a pass and raced 62 yards behind three alert and instrumental Hun blockers.

Germantown got within Hun's 20 twice and, on both occasions, the victors' Paul Kadlic provided vitally needed heroics. He grabbed two Friends' tosses, the first one in the Hun end zone and the second on the Hun 8 with less than two minutes remaining in the contest. Shortly after this second interception, with the Red and Black obliged to kick out of danger, a bad pass from center missed Kadlic and bounced into the end zone where Kadlic recovered the ball and calmly punted it 65 yards.

Congratulating his team on its success over "our strongest opponent so far," Hun Coach Hawley Waterman called the triumph "another team victory." Germantown managed to sweep the Johnny Huns' ends on its option play, but the Red and Black line held beautifully "up the middle" and the Hun secondary was particularly effective in stopping aerial and ground maneuvers. In addition to Kadlic, who excelled, Waterman cited Charlie Bennett and Landis for their linebacking feats.

The coach noted that his eleven's passing attack was nil, especially in reference to the two would-be touchdown heaves. But he said Princeton's Tommy Petrone has been switched to "semi-lonesome" end in an effort to provide Hun with a solid threat by air. "He missed a couple last week, but he'll be okay as soon as he learns all our pass patterns," Waterman explained. "All we're asking him to do is run out there and be loose."

BOWLING NOTES

The Femmes Prove Valet. Every once and a while, the distaff keglers outshine their male counterparts at Princeton Recreation Center — and this past week was one of those times. Joan Dunn rolled a nifty 217 game, with Barbara Danser right behind her at 215 in Women's Industrial competition. No doubt about it, gents, they were the belles of the (bowling) ball!

The rest of the challengers in the Women's Industrial League were pretty solid, too. Marge Drummond posted a 188, followed by Marilyn Lowe, 186; Lillian Burrough, 183; and Betty Drummond, 181. In the Princeton Women's Bowling loop, Barbara Danser was way up there again, with a 188 high game, pursued avidly by Sue Fisher, 183; Betty Cooper, 180; Betty Kleiber, 179; Sara Rose, 178-174; Sis Kleiforth, 175; Liz Barclay, 173, and Ala Sponholtz, 170.

Team-wise, Nassau Service (38 wins) maintained its narrow margin over the Cranbury Inn (35) among the Industrialists, though Cifelli Electric (30), Decker's and Turney Motors (28 each) and the Lucky Strikes (27) can hardly be called "out of the running." Tiger Bus (34) moved into undisputed possession of first place in the PWBL, while the Betty Wright Shop fell into a second-place deadlock with Town Topics (30 apiece).

The "B's" Prove Grade-A. Call them Princeton "B" Leaguers if you will, but they were the cream of the male crop this past week. Phil Wesp, for instance, tossed a 247 and Ralph Pirone came through with a 245, both in "B" loop play, and no one in other circuits compared with their scores. So who can dispute the difference between "B" and "A"?

At any rate, George Duryea was top man among Princeton "A" League keglers, followed by Jack Cranford, 224, and Bill Dumble, 202. In Tri-County Firemen's loop competition, Elmer Wilson's 224 was high game trailed by Otto Olsen, 220; Bill Bergen, 207; Norm Luck, 204, and Pat DeAngelo, 202. Bob Sapel posted a 223 in the Industrial circuit, which found Doug DeCicco with a 212, John Maier with a 202 and Rudy Lehnert with a 201, while, in the "B" loop, pursuers were Vince Perone, 217; Joe Pfister, 204; Jack Lucey, 202, and Boots Leffel, 200.

Team-wise, Tiger Bus — climbing rapidly — tied Food Machinery Chemical No. 1 for top honors in the "B" loop (with 28 wins each), with Windsor Oil (26) and Maul Electric (24) close behind. Farr Hardware (21) regained first place in the "A" circuit and the Farmers tied Hulit's Shoes (22 apiece), while, in the firefighters' circuit, Kingston (32) increased its lead over Mercer No. 3 (26). Para Lab Sopply (26) maintained a slim margin over Gable Tavern (24) and Maier & Baldwin (22) in the Industrial League.

ASSISTANT HOCKEY COACH

Wood to Join University Staff. R. Norman Wood, who led the Harvard hockey team to its 1954 Ivy League championship, has been appointed an assistant hockey coach at Princeton University. He will join head coach Richard F. Vaughan for the first workouts on November 1.

The 28-year old former Cantab captain received the award for being the most valuable player on the Harvard varsity hockey team his senior year. When tryouts for the 1956 U. S. Olympic hockey team were being held, he was flown back from his Army post in Italy to compete.

Since he left the Army in 1956, Mr. Wood has worked for a Boston real estate firm and continued to play amateur hockey. He has been a lifelong resident of Marblehead, Mass.

KENDALL PARK CANVASS

For Benefit of UNICEF. The Kendall Park Civic Association will sponsor a door-to-door campaign for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund on Friday night, October 31. The collecting will be done by children in Hallowe'en outfits.

After school over 300 school children will start the drive for funds to provide medicine and food to sick and hungry children around the world. The young solicitors will be identified by orange and black emblems on their arms or collections banks.

The UNICEF drive in this trick-or-treat fashion is being sponsored nationally by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. It includes more than 8500 communities throughout the nation.

ON TEEN-AGE DRIVING

Gassert Discusses Proposals. After meeting with members of the committee on teen-age driving, Fred J. Gassert, Director of Motor Vehicles, said that he had no disagreement with the suggestions of the group. These proposals include stricter licensing procedures, junior licenses and stiffer fines for offenders.

Mr. Gassert commended the group for its work and said he would determine how the program might be put into practice, either by legislation or administration action. He will return on November 5 to again discuss the proposals with the committee.

Attending the meeting with the Director of Motor Vehicles were Alan W. Richards, founder of the group; George Conover, Mrs. E. Harris Herbison, Howard Stepp, juvenile referee, Theodore T. Tams Jr., Borough magistrate, the Rev. Edward C. Henry and Francis G. Clark, executive secretary of the YMCA.

NATURALISTS TO MEET

Color Films on Program. The Trenton Naturalist Club, to which many residents of this area belong, will meet Tuesday at 8 at Junior High School No. 3 in Trenton (West State Street and Parkside.) The first of five Audobon Screen Tours will be shown, including scenes of wildlife in Wisconsin, the Canadian Rockies and Alaska.

Other meetings and walks to nature spots are planned by the club, in addition to the series of color films. Single admissions or complete memberships may be purchased at the door.

PROFESSORS GIVEN RAISES

University Hikes Pay. Professors and associate professors at Princeton University will be given raises beginning next February 1. President Robert F. Goheen announced an "across-the-board" increase of $1000 a year for full professors and $500 a year for associate professors.

To go with the salary hikes, the board of trustees also established a minimum salary of $11,000 for professors and $8000 for associate professors, representing increases in the minimum equal to the raises for each group. The increases for next year will be supplemented by regular merit raises.

Funds for the faculty raises will come from the recently announced increase of $250 in tuition and the annual giving of alumni, parents and friends. When he announced the tuition raise last month, President Goheen commented that it was to "permit further long overdue improvements" in the faculty's salaries.

He noted that these improvements were necessary "if we are to continue to aim at excellence in instruction and research and if we are, in this country, to restore the attractiveness of the profession of teaching and scholarship to fresh talent of a high order." The University president added that Princeton did not want to raise the cost of education but that it had no alternative if it is to give the necessary faculty raises.

BIRTH LIST

10 Children Arrive. A total of 10 children, including six boys, were born to area residents at Princeton Hospital last week.

Parents of sons are: Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smallwood, 39 Leigh Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tornquist, Fairview Road, Skillman; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Nagy, Laurel Avenue, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Kazanski, East New Road, Monmouth Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Victor G. Bruce, 77 Longview Drive; and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Long, 43 Maple Street.

Parents of daughters are: Mr. and Mrs. Ned Bray, Cranbury Station Road, Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McManimon, Lincoln Highway; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford J. Luther, 35 South Main Street, Cranbury; and Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Crandall, 5 Nassau Road, Franklin Park.

SIX RECEIVE AWARDS

PTA Honors PHS Students. Six Princeton High School students have received awards from the Parent-Teacher Association for their high scholastic standing. The group includes the top ranking boy and girl in last year's junior, sophomore and freshman classes.

Honored were Sally Ann Mather and Peter Vajk, seniors; Jane Sommer and Ralph Harbison, juniors; and Susan Beidler and Alan Tucker, sophomores. The seniors at the head of last year's graduating class, Carol Jones and Robert Hoyler, received their awards last spring.

Who's On Third?

Kean and Williams, New Jersey's Republican and Democratic candidates for the United States Senate, are still running neck-and-neck, according to the latest report of the New Jersey Poll.

The Poll's findings also indicate that people who consider themselves Republicans are going down the line for Kean, and those who regard themselves as Democrats are sticking close to Williams. This is different from the situation in 1956 when Eisenhower picked up almost a third of the Democratic vote, and in 1957, when Robert Meyner had nearly one-fifth of the Republican vote.

New Jersey's independents, who will swing the vote, are almost evenly divided with Williams running 51% to Kean's 49%.

TOWNSHIP BIKE INSPECTION

Set for Tuesday. Bicycles of Township school children will be checked for safety Tuesday by Sgt. Richard V. Steiner, Township juvenile officer. He will start his inspection at 9 a.m. at the Valley Road School and move to the Littlebrook School at 1:30 p.m.

The serial numbers of the bicycles will be recorded when they pass inspection and they will be given stickers to indicate they have passed. Between inspections, the children are urged to keep the bike in good condition at all times, with special attention to brakes, lights, horn or bell and the rear reflector.

Other bicycle safety rules stressed are: using the correct hand signals, riding well to the side of the right side of the street, obeying the same traffic signals and signs that motorists must observe, and slowing down and using caution at intersections.

12 RECEIVE PINS

Cub Scouts of Pack 50. Twelve members of Pack 50, Cub Scouts, received their Bobcat pins at last week's meeting in the Parish House of Trinity Church. The session also featured short talks by the members on their summer activities.

Awarded Bobcat pins were: Alan Downer, Carl Morgenstern, David Stewart, John Taylor, David Friend, Matthew Alexander, Sam McLeery, Hollis McLoughlin, Sam Walker, John Clagborn, Norman Williams III and Robert O'Neil.

KENDALL PTA WILL MEET

Tuesday at Cambridge School. "The Head of the House," a film aimed at fathers' participation in the PTA, will be the feature of the Kendall Park PTA's next meeting. It will take place at 8 on Tuesday at the Cambridge School.

At 7:30 there will be an "open house" for parents to discuss their children's work with the teachers. The kindergarten room mothers will serve refreshments.

STUDENTS EXPLORE LAB

Future Scientists Make Tour. A group of science students from Princeton, Hightstown, Jamesburg and Hopewell Township High schools paid a day-long visit last Wednesday to the Central Research Laboratory of Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation.

Arranged and sponsored by the Princeton Area Science Education Committee, the visit included discussions with laboratory scientists, an address by Dr. W. L. Davidson, the laboratory director and a discussion-tour of the research facilities and operations in the laboratory's chemical program.

Similar tours and special-topic science lectures for teacher and student groups may be arranged by writing to M. D. Blumenfeld, American Cyanamid Co., P.O. Box 672, Princeton.

PARENTS DAY AT HUN

Full Schedule for Saturday. Parents Day at the Hun School Saturday will run from 10 a.m. to late afternoon and will include a full schedule. The parents will attend a soccer game, a panel discussion, a football game and a meeting of the Auxiliary and the Father's Associations.

Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, headmaster, announced that the parents will start the day with a soccer game against the Princeton University freshman "B" team, followed by luncheon. Dr. Chesebro will preside at a question-and-answer period after lunch and faculty department heads will explain the programs of their departments.

After the 2:00 football game with Tower Hill, parents will meet in their respective groups. Mrs. John R. Gallaudet of Pennington is president of the Auxiliary and Harold B. Churchill, 44 Rollingmeed, heads the Fathers' group.

MORE ADVERTISERS use TOWN TOPICS exclusively than any other Topics exclusively than any other paper in Princeton. It costs them less per copy, too.

News Of The CHURCHES

REFORMATION-VESPERS

Annual Service Next Week. The third annual Reformation Vespers, sponsored by the Concordia Society, Lutheran student group on the University campus, will be held next Sunday, November 2 at 4 p.m. in the University Chapel.

As in previous years, a major feature of the Vespers will be special music written for organ, choir and instruments. This year, the Concordia Society has commissioned Ramiro Cortes, pupil of Roger Sessions and currently a graduate student at the University. For the Vespers, he has composed music for the psalms and two additional pieces, one op the Lesson and one on the Sermon

Preaching this year will be Dr. O. P. Kretzmann, president of Valparaiso University. He will speak on "Costly Grace." Charles Brown, musical director of Lutheran of the Messiah, will direct the musical portions of the service.

PEOPLE

In Princeton's Churches. Roy S. Vogt, 35 Knoll Drive, has been appointed to the Finance Committee of the Board of Managers of the New Jersey Baptist Convention. Currently chairman of Calvary Baptist's Building Committee, Mr. Vogt was also chairman of the church's successful fund-raising drive.

Mrs. Joseph Geiberman, director of New York City's Grand Street Settlement, will discuss "Our Changing Communities" at the next meeting of the B'nai B'rith Women to be held this Thursday at the Jewish Center at 8:30 p.m. At the same meeting, Mrs. Benedict Kingsley will give a resume of Philip N. Klutznick's book, "This Is Israel."

Dr. Gerald Breese, associate professor of sociology at Princeton, will be keynote speaker at a UNICEF rally for high-school students this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Second Presbyterian Church.

MEETINGS

In Princeton Churches. Witherspoon Presbyterian will hold a Christmas Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on November 13 and 14 featuring hand-made articles and a puppet show produced by Mrs. Frank Clark and starring "humanettes" — half human, half puppet. Fried turkey will be served from 5-7:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The Unitarian Church will hold its dedication service this Sunday at 11 a.m. The new church is on the corner of Cherry Hill and Route 206.

Young Adult Fellowship of the three Presbyterian churches will meet Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in the First church to discuss "The Nature of the Non-Western World." Next Wednesday: "The Middle East and Islam."

SOCIAL DRINKING

Episcopal Stand. Episcopalians around Princeton are chuckling over the report on alcohol and social drinking made by the Joint Commission on Alcoholism of the Protestant Episcopal Church and released last week. The code for Episcopalian hosts includes these rules:

Never give a party for the main purpose of drinking and always serve food with alcoholic drinks, offering non-drinkers a choice of beverages that are not alcoholic. Avoid drawing attention to a guest who is known to be an alcoholic. Never delegate to cocktails the host's responsibility to create an atmosphere, and to encourage relationships that are conducive to wholesome recreation.

The basic Episcopalian position "Each must make the decision (on drinking) himself."

News From Thailand

"We had to come half-way around the world to be together in the same service." With these words, Dr. J. Finley Williamson, retired head of Westminster Choir College, greeted Dr. William L. Tuller, former minister of the Second Presbyterian Church an 1 now interim pastor of the International Church of Bankok, Thailand.

The meeting took place on Sunday, October 6, when the two retired Princetonians led the service in the Thai church. Dr. and Mrs. Williamson had come to Bankok the preceeding week so that Dr. Williamson might direct an Institute of Church music for Thai-English and Chinese groups.

Dr. Williamson also directed an Institute in the northern section of Thailand where his evening hymn-sings attracted huge crowds. About 80% of his audience consisted of Buddhists. Justly singing Christian hymns, Westminster Choir College style.

Obituaries

Gabriel Balestrieri Jr., 37, of 76 Mountain Avenue, died October 15 at home. He was a former employee of the Flanders Hotel, Atlantic City.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Balestrieri, he is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Rose Pisani, Mrs. Mary Consoli and Mrs. Yolande Armenia, all of Princeton, and Mrs. Emma Cefaloni of Trenton; and a brother, Rocco Balestrieri, of New York City.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Patricia Lynn Cifelli, the nine-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberto P. Cifelli, died at Princeton Hospital October 19. Her parents live on Alexander Road, Princeton Junction.

She is survived by a sister, Virginia Carol Cifelli; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Pettie of Trenton; and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Cifelli of Princeton. Interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

C. Herbert Davidson, 75, of 115 Stockton Street, died October 15 at Princeton Hospital. He was chairman of the board of the Hightstown Rug Co. and had served as president from 1923-1951. President of the Hightstown Trust Co. from 1923-1931, he was also a member of the Board of Corporators of the Peddie School.

He was president of the Mercer County YMCA and served on the board of the Westminster Choir School. An active member of the First Presbyterian Church, he had been superintendent of the Sunday School. He was a member of Hightstown Lodge 41, F & AM, the Nassau Club and the Union League Club of New York City.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Anderson Davison; a son, Herbert B. Davison; a daughter, Mrs. John P. Chubet 3d, all of Princeton; two sisters, Miss Charlotta Davison of Hightstown, and Mrs. E. Garrison of Winchester, Mass.; and three brothers, the Rev. Walter S. Davison of Huntington, N. Y., Joseph B. Davison of Ocean Grove, and Howard C. Davison of Cranbury.

The funeral was held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dr. John R. Bodo officiating. Interment was in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hightstown.

Philip A. Pooley, 74, of Canal Road, died October 20 at Somerset Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Clara A. Pooley.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Wycoff of Harlingen and Mrs. Alice Williams of Milltown; a sister, Mrs. Elie Pettie of Belvidere; a brother, Fred Pooley of Bloomfield; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The Rev. James Cook of the Blawenburg Reformed Church officiated at the service. Interment was in Fernwood Cemetery, Jamesburg.

Mrs. Maria Victoria Rinaldi, 78, of 35 Bank Street, died October 18 at her home. Wife of Giovanni Rinaldi, she had lived here since 1921.

She is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maria Lunt of Seattle, Wash.; a son, Mario Rinaldi of Princeton; and three grandchildren. The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Sbirrell W. Spencer, 54, of Marion, Ohio, died October 11. A Hopewell resident for 35 years, he had moved to Ohio a year ago. He was the husband of Mrs. Gwendolyne Agin Spencer.

He was a member of Lodge 377, FOE, the Marion County Fish and Game Commission and past president of the Sourland Mountain Game Club of Hopewell.

He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Adelaide Shirrell of California; three daughters, Mrs. Shirley Rightmire, Mrs. Ginnie Secoolish and Miss Myrnie Spencer; two sons, George Spencer and Shirrell Spencer Jr.; and four grandchildren, all of Hopewell.

POTENTIAL SHOWPLACE
for $32,500

For imaginative people with a taste for the unusual and a craving for privacy this unique house with its beautiful eight acres, large pond, small swimming pool and summer house with fireplace is a challenge and a find. Large welcoming entrance hall and raised living room—both with fireplaces—dining room, 5 or 6 bedrooms (depending on how you use the rooms) and 4 baths give an idea of the space; but the personality of the house cannot be put on paper. The house itself has an air of Capri; the formal landscaping is quite Roman; the land is a northwest Princeton deer preserve!

"BROOKSTONE"

Q. What is Brookstone?

A. Brookstone is the historic and beautiful Russell Estate which is being improved into 76 building plots for sale to discerning purchasers.

Q. Where is Brookstone?

A. Brookstone is in the exclusive Western Section of Town at Rosedale Road and along picturesque Stony Brook. It is surrounded by the homes and estates of many prominent families of Princeton. It is entirely within the Township of Princeton.

Q. How large are the plots?

A. Each homesite is at least 2 acres in area; others more than 2½ acres. Some plots have frontage on historic Stony Brook. Most lots are beautifully wooded, the rest are natural farmland.

Q. How many plots are available?

A. No more than 12 building sites are for sale this year.

Q. Are the utilities and improvements in?

A. Public water supply, electricity, storm sewers and catch basins, and blacktop roads are in for all lots in Sections I and II. Improvements included in purchase price.

Q. Are there restrictions?

A. To safeguard the purchaser, deed restrictions have been filed to assure architecture in harmony with the natural beauty of the area. Entrance to and exit from Brookstone is only by way of Fairway Drive, a 100 foot wide approach of 2 one-way roads separated by a landscaped center mall. No individual driveways are permitted onto Rosedale Road.

Q. Can a purchaser choose his own Architect and Builders?

A. Yes. Purchasers in Sections I and II have homes being planned, under construction, or already completed on their lot.

Q. Is title insurance available?

A. Yes. Plots are guaranteed and insured by a quarter-million dollar title policy. All lots in Sections I and II are free and clear of any mortgage.

Q. How much is a lot in Brookstone?

A. Prices start from $10,000 for each plot.

Q. Who has more information and a map of Brookstone?

A. Write or phone owner.

SOME LIKE THEM OLD

VENERABLE, DIGNIFIED, and TRULY BEAUTIFUL An Early American Split Shingle with spacious graciousness. We are not sure just which of its distinctive features gives the greatest pride in the ownership of this home. The oversized porticoed porch with its large swinging lantern and its ante-bellum air. The impressive drawing room with its extremely rare paneling which had been moved from its home in England to a New York mansion, and now to this lovely country home. This room alone is a connoisseur's find and delight with its exquisite fireplace, mouldings, shell carvings, collector's corner cupboard and bookcase. The immense dining room, 34' long with Federal like paper, beautiful old windows and Dutch doors to the terrace. Kitchen, five bedrooms, two baths, abundant built-ins and closets. Two car garage. Pump house with its own tiny portico and wainscoating that is reputed to have come from the "Old Nass." Old pine, buttonwood, catalba, and maple trees on 10 acres.

MOST UNUSUAL AT $47,500

A Century and a Half Old Farm House handsomely restored, but retaining its aged charm with old random width floors, old fireplaces, with original crane, a bit of cranberry glass, and an old stone well house on three acres. A gracious living room with fireplace, a cheerful dining room with fireplace, a pleasingly rustic kitchen, a large flagstone floored den with old fireplace, plus a most desirable downstairs bedroom and bath. Upstairs there are four bedrooms and a large double entrance bath. Flagstone porch and a charmingly shaped terrace with long views and magnificent shade. Split rail fence, a barn-garage. A splendid 55' x 44' swimming pool.

Priced at: $45,000

SOME LIKE THEM NEW

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE Northwestern Section of Princeton on approximately 1½ acres is a 140' Ranch house now under construction, which presents an incorporation of the most advanced theories of architecture for the modern family with many of the repected details of our American past.

The huge 20x19 INDOOR swimming pool is only one of its revolutionary features. Four family bedrooms, two baths and vanity, one maid's room and bath. Large living room, full sized dining room, 32 foot family room with fireplace, most modern of kitchen, 22' breezeway with outdoor fireplace Two-car garage. This home designed for joyous living will carry a fine address.

EXCLUSIVE $55,000

A NEW ENGLAND COLONIAL under construction which blends old brick and white clapboard into a handsome home. No run of the mill features in this house. Wide foyer, mahogany paneled den, sunken living room, with fireplace and view window, formal dining room, marvelous family room-kitchen combination. G. E. equipped with dishwasher, washer-dryer, wall oven, and the latest in push-button cooking and exhaust fan. The family area gives plenty of space for eating, TV viewing, "homework," games or what-have-you' Sliding glass doors open from here to a bricked terrace with long views. Powder room with large vanity. Upstairs four large bedrooms, two tile baths with glassed in showers; oversized cabinets; four foot mirrors; beautiful lighting fixtures; numerous large closets. Two-car garage in convenient township location.

$43,500

Trim Split Level on approximately ¾ of an acre in the township. Large living room with mahogany paneled walls and fireplace. Dining room, modern kitchen with Tappan wall oven and table top burners, birch cabinets and exhaust fan. Large 26-foot recreation room. Three bedrooms and 2½ baths.

$32,500

HERE IS A TINY CAPE COD GEM, conveniently located in the WEST END OF TOWN, with an unusual "Old Worldly" terrace and garden with espaliered pear, crab apple, a shady grape arbor, and superb roses, a living room paneled with old and new wood, a fireplace, dining area, compact kitchen, a bedroom and bath, plus a convenient office or nursery. Additional bedroom and lots of storage upstairs. Owner moving west. Interested in realistic offer on this exclusive listing.

Older house in Boro—Large living and dining room combined, kitchen and bath; 4 bedrooms and bath on second. Two bedrooms on third. In excellent condition with good plumbing. Fine for large family or income property.

REAL ESTATE OFFERINGS

SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

Here is a Western Section Rambler, in an ideal setting; the floor plan is good, and the exterior design most pleasing. The living area has a spacious, well-proportioned living room; a separate dining room, a bright kitchen, and a lavatory. The sleeping area is in a separate wing and consists of three spacious bedrooms and one bath. Excellent value and easy financing at $25,500.

LAWRENCEVILLE

One of our older houses, but you couldn't ask for better condition or construction. It has all the touch stones: slate roof, hot water oil heat, hardwood floors, and other extras. Also plenty of living space with a large living room, a den, a separate dining room, three large bedrooms and one and one-half baths. Very fairly priced at $17,500.

PLAINSBORO

Here is a fine buy; a six-room, two-story older house which has been completely repaired and redecorated. Its three bedrooms and spacious yard would suit a large family. Realistically priced at $12,500

LAWRENCEVILLE

An excellent roomy duplex, convenient to shopping and transportation. One apartment has five rooms and is ready to occupy; the other needs some work but will result in a nice four-room apartment. A good income producer.

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP

A generously proportioned split-level featuring large family room and separate den; also three bedrooms, one full and two half baths. Suggest you act now on this fine buy which requires very little down payment.

$20,500

MONTGOMERY TWP.

(On Province Line Road)

The location couldn't be nicer, five rolling acres and a house on the top of the knoll. The house has a compact five rooms that might be enlarged economically. Very interesting at
